ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This work would not have been possible without the help from a number of people who should be acknowledged here. I wish to express my gratitude to a number of individuals who were extremely helpful in assisting me throughout the duration of this research work.

The present dissertation was undertaken and completed under the supervision and able guidance of my honourable Research Guide Dr. R.B. Bilawar, Reader in Sociology and Former Head of the Department of Sociology, whose observations and valuable suggestions and whole hearted encouragement have immensely improved this presentation. I, also, appreciate his responsibility and untiring efforts in helping me to polish this study.

I would like to acknowledge my deep appreciation to all the Professors and Staff members of my Department, specially Dr. V.V. Deshpande, Reader and Head of the Department and Dr. B.L. Joshi for their valuable suggestions and for providing me many facilities that needed during the period of my work.

I, also, would like to thank Dr. Phramaha Suyaprom, Director the University Campus Affairs, Dr. Phramaha Amnuay Singhsukha, Director of the Planning Section, Mahachulalongkornrajavidyalaya Buddhist University, under Royal Patronage, and also thanks to Dr. (Mrs.) Nonglaksna Thepsawasdi, Associate Professor and Dean of Faculty of Social Administration, Thammasat University, for their interest and help me to get viewpoints and many materials about research work, I am grateful to them for their kindness.
My special thanks are to Mahachulalongkornrajavidhalya Buddhist University under Royal Patronage, especially the Rector and Dean of Faculty of Social Science who allowed me to get permission for doing this research work. And during my research for materials, I have received every kind of co-operation and help from Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar Marathwada University Library, Thammasat University Library, Mahidol University Library, National Statistical Office etc. and others. I am grateful to them all.
