ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I avail this opportunity to thank (late) Professor P.B. Desai who agreed to guide me and asked me to pursue the topic when I discussed it with him.

I am indebted to Dr. Shrinivas H. Ratti, Professor and Head of the Department of Ancient Indian History and Epigraphy who agreed to supervise my work after Professor P.B. Desai’s demise. But for his guidance, help and encouragement at every stage I may not have completed the work.

Dr. B.R. Cople, Reader, Department of South Indian studies patiently read the original and revised drafts and offered his critical comments. I sincerely acknowledge his help.

I am grateful to the Chief Epigraphist for Government of India for granting permission to me to consult the estampages and transcripts of some unpublished epigraphs in his custody and for allowing me to include in the thesis, the transliteration of some of them.
I thank Dr. R. Nagaswamy, Director, Tamil Nadu State Department of Archaeology for permitting me to use his office library, Sri I.K. Srinivasan, Superintending Archaeologist, Southern Circle, Archaeological Survey of India who gave me the transcript and photograph of Tirumalei inscription and Sri I.K. Sharma, Superintending Archaeologist, Temple Survey Project, Southern Circle for allowing me to reproduce some of the photographs from his office collection.

I am thankful to Dr. M.D. Sampath, Dr. P. Shanmugam, Mr. R. Jayakumar and Mrs. Jeyalakshmi Srinivasan for helping me in various ways.
