ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is a matter of great privilege for me to acknowledge the help, guidance and encouragement which I received from various quarters during this research project.

I owe sincere gratitude to my supervisor Dr. Rajesh Kumar Sharma, Professor, Department of English, Punjabi University, Patiala, who initiated me into the study of new media writing, its theory and practice. It has been privilege to work under his meticulous and scholarly guidance. His inspiration has kept me going through the high and low phases of my research. Through his critical appraisals of my work, I have come to learn new dimensions of my research project which in turn helped me work harder and learn many new things. His constructive observations and insights immensely helped me to improve my research work and give it a fruitful direction. I am extremely thankful to him for making my research experience creatively exciting and memorable.

I would specially like to thank Mark Amerika and Marie-Laure Ryan with whom I discussed the project through email. Their encouraging response and valuable insights have enabled me to orient my project in creative and critical directions.

I express my deeply felt thanks to Mrs. Sunita Sharma for her encouragement and much needed sumptuous dishes during my visits to their home.

I am grateful to other members of the Department of English, Punjabi University for their help and encouragement. I am also thankful to Mr. Surinder Pal Singh for his help whenever I needed it.
I want to thank Prof. Gurbhagat Singh, Prof. Swaraj Walia and Mr. Amarjit Chandan for responding enthusiastically and encouragingly to my research project which instilled new confidence in me.

I want to pay my deepest gratitude to my parents and my brother who persevered with me and allowed me to carry forward my creative and critical pursuits.

I extend my sincere thanks to Mr. Dheeraj Kumar (Universal Computers, Opp. Punjabi University, Patiala) for neat, meticulous and efficient typing of this manuscript.

And lastly, I want to pay my heartfelt gratitude with all reverence and respect to Prof. Bhupinder Singh and Mr. Gurdial Singh Bal with whom I have spent long hours of discussion pertaining to philosophical and literary issues. For me, both have been inexhaustible sources of intellectual stimulation and creative inspiration.

This research project would not have been possible if Dr Teginder Kumar had not been with me during all this time.

Dharamjeet Singh