Acknowledgement

My journey towards the completion of doctoral thesis is coming to an end. Let me express my gratitude and feelings to those who have accompanied me in this journey.

First and foremost, my supervisor, Prof. Debjani Sengupta who always supported me and without her encouragement this study would not have been completed. The kind of academic freedom and moral support that she has extended to me is remarkable. I thank her wholeheartedly for all her help and support.

It was certainly organization like Sreema Mahila Samity who gave me an opportunity to study their organization and provided support in conducting the surveys without which I could not have carried out this study. I am thankful to Bani Saraswati, the Secretary of the organization Sreema Mahila Samity.

I also acknowledge the help of Secretary of Agradut Polly Unnayan Samity, Howrah for completing the study. I am thankful to all the members.

I also acknowledge the help of Associate Scientist Dr. Chiranjiv Neogi of Indian Statistical Institute, Kolkata. I am indebted to him for his timely support in difficult situations.

My discussion with Mr. R. Thanvi of Nabard Kolkata, has helped me immensely and I express my gratitude to him. My academic interactions with Dr. Amit Bhandari has enriched and refined my thought process.
Prof. Partha Sarathi De, HOD, Sociology Department, University of Kalyani has always extended his support throughout the study period.

My family was highly helpful and without which the completion of this study would not have been realized. It is my wife Mrs. Purnima Banik who has inspired me during the course of my studies.

I am also grateful to my father Sri Sunil Baran Ghosh and mother Smt. Krishna Ghosh for their constant encouragement.

I also want to convey sincere thanks to my childhood friend Mr. Supriyo Roy of M/s. Tendercare Computers, Kalyani for computer printing, Xerox and statistical part of the research work.
