Determination is an important prerequisite to achieve good goals in one’s life; but without God nothing can be achieved. To who glory and honor belongs, for this far I stand today. I am a product of His grace and mercy. Here, I avail the opportunity to express my deep sense of gratitude and thanks to my research guide Professor A.A. Vaishnav, Professor, Department of Library and Information Science, Dr. BAMU. No amount of words can express my heartfelt gratitude and appreciation she was not only my guide, but mother who my career was a priority than PhD, she suggested to me the present research problem and extended her immense help, invaluable time, guidance and cooperation throughout the research period. Her deep rooted knowledge, enthusiasm, masterly approach, keen observations and silent inspiration motivated me a lot while completing this work.

I would like also to thank Prof Leah Marangu, the Vice Chancellor, Africa Nazarene University for according me this glorious opportunity in my life to develop my career. Her constant encouragement and financial support throughout the grueling journey of my doctorate did not only add value in my life but also multiplied it.

I would also love to express my sincere thanks to my teacher Dr. V. Kharpande, the head of Library & Information Science; a colleague and a friend for her constant encouragement and valuable advice till the end. Dr S S Sonwane, who, behind this great work I found to be a rich resource in my work, a promising colleague and a friend in my struggle who gave this final draft its current shape. I thank Vijay Deo for his continues encouragement. I thank Dr Adhe & Shri K. Narwade (Mama) for being a true epitome of Indian fathers with a zeal of humanity, P. Mohite, and my colleagues Mr Madansigh Golw, Mr Balu Mukhyadal, J. Kulkarni, P. Mundhe and H Hoshmani of the Department of Library and Information Science for their constant inspiration and emotional help. I will fail my obligation without thanking the guide’s son; Gajanan (PhD),Mrs Gajanan(PhD) & daughter for offering me empathy and countless unseen hands to me.

My special thanks goes to my dear wife Roselyne Akeyo Kinya, my daughter Trisah Bochere and my son Philip Samson Onderi for their constant prayers and patience at every phase of my study. Their prayers convicted me of the Godly responsibility and offered me the strength. Their concern about my wellbeing revealed the love, and their smile gave me hope as their emails and phone calls brought me void. Their tears were too expensive for me; they doubled mine and humbled me to the core.

I can’t also forget the fatherly advice and favour I have received from “Daddy James Nganga” who in his wisdom stood with my vision and offered me unceasing encouragement to pursue a PhD degree. Mrs Daina Martin who kept me in her prayers constantly. I was truly humbled by her great encouragement. A Malik (PhD) who stood with me till end as a true friend.

I sincerely thank my greatest friend, colleague, brother and mentor Bogita W Ongeri, Director of Public Communications in the Ministry of Defense, Republic of Kenya for keeping an eye on my family, giving me encouragement when I needed it most, sharing and standing with me during the lonely moment in my life and above all being a true friend in this unpredictable planet earth. He is the one behind the curtain of this enormous work, through him I learnt to bite the bullet in life.

It is my pleasant duty to express my deep sense of gratitude to my parents, Samson Onderi, and Teresah Bochere, Bro Richard Ombongi & Stanley Makori for they laid the bricks; my adored brother Solomon Masese, My father and mother in-law Wilson Ngere, and Grace Ngere, my brother-in-laws Dr John Amenya and Edward Olouch and their wives Mary Amenya, and Pamela Akinyi respectively without whom I could not have reached this far. They have embraced and held my hand; my family was their priority through all circumstances and time I was out, without which it could have been impossible to complete this noble career undertaking.

It is my honest duty also to express my thanks to my friends and colleagues Robert Kakoi (PhD) who offered me the shoulder when I needed it most, a promising colleague and true friend in my work, Lydia Nyamiaka to whom I found brilliant words and comfort during the weird times of my study. Joshua Boit & Aaron Oirere (PhD) sparkling gentlemen whom I got solace in their knowledge and friendship. Martin Ngue who humbled me by offering me time and resources to help me in my final stage. Tom Ratemo (PhD) who did all it cost him to register me in absentia. The Kenyans & the fellowship I thank them for their prayers and moral support.

I am thankful to the Director of the Kenya National Library Services (KNLS) Richard Atuti for providing me with the library facility, mailing my data and above all standing with me in my vision. Peter Oenga of the USA with whom I share this dream of over 20 years that loving God and pursuing education is the highway to success. I thank him for his unfailing encouragement, constructive suggestions and spiritual support. I also thank my Pastors Peter Benjamin and Thomas H for their spiritual nourishment during my research and stay in India. Brother Rohit A Bhaktul for his technical input and his family support relentlessly standing with me and ensured that this research is complete.

Finally, this study could not have seen the light of the day, but for the kind cooperation and help of the respondents and KNLS staff who extended the professional hand, patiently filled up the questionnaires and at the same time offered constructive and professional suggestions. I am grateful and honestly thankful to all colleagues and respondents. I am indeed indebted to different authors and experts on the subject whose work I have either consulted or quoted. Thanks to all those seen and unseen heads and hands that have been of direct or indirect help to me in completion of this research work, Ecc 11:4-5.…..Even so, you cannot know the works of God who made all.
