 ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Words cannot adequately express my indebtedness and deep sense of gratitude to my revered supervisor Dr. P.V. Raghavan, Professor and Head (Retired), Post-Graduate and Research Department of Economics, D.G. Vaishnav College, Chennai, for his invaluable guidance, encouragement and support at each and every stage of this study. He has been a potential source of ideas and suggestions for bringing this work to its final stage.

I express my sincere thanks to Dr. S.P. Rajagopalan, Principal, D.G. Vaishnav College, Chennai, for his encouragement and motivation throughout my academic pursuit.

It is with profound gratitude I place on record my heartiest thanks to Dr. S. Narasimhan, Professor and Head, Post-Graduate and Research Department of Economics, D.G. Vaishnav College, Chennai, for his valuable suggestions and encouragement throughout the course of my work.

It is with deep sense of gratitude that I place on record the continuous and unstinted support given by Dr. S. Varadharajan, Professor (Retired), Department of Agricultural Economics, Tamil Nadu Agricultural University, Coimbatore, throughout my research work, who has helped me in no small measure to steer clear of the ambiguities of my research work. His contribution is gratefully acknowledged.

I remain grateful to Dr. M. Naganathan, Professor and Head, Dr. C. Murukadas, Professor and Dr. K. Kuppusamy, Professor, Department of Economics and Dr. P. Duraisamy, Professor of Econometrics, University of Madras, for their constant encouragement and continuous source of inspiration throughout the study.

It is my bounden duty to place on record the indebtedness to my colleagues Mr. R. Balasubramaniam, Mr. M. Venkataramanan, Mrs. Prema Kumar, Mrs. Jayalakshmi, Mrs. Kanchanamala, Dr. N.R.V. Prabhu and Dr. (Mrs.) Banumathi Prabhu for their constant encouragement and help for the present study. In fact, but for them. I would not have achieved this standard of presenting my thesis through the meticulous processing of the manuscripts. I also thank all the members of my faculty and college for their encouragement and support.

I express my profound gratitude to Mr. R. Srinivasan, Department of Economics, A.M. Jain College, for his prompt and generous assistance throughout my work.

Words are inadequate to express my deep sense of gratitude and indebtedness to Dr. T. Lakshmanasamy, Reader, Department of Econometrics, University of Madras and G Narayanan, Technical Officer, The Ramanujan Institute, University of Madras, for their help in statistical analysis. In fact, but for them, I could not have completed my work on time.

I am very much grateful to Mr. Murugavel, Mr. Magesh, Miss. Kannagi, Mr. T.M. Ramamurthy and Mr. V. Chinnas Dharmaraj for extending their willing co-operation in presenting my thesis with their meticulous processing of the manuscripts. The time that they spent with me and the care taken by them were enormous for which I am very grateful to them.

I owe a word of thanks to Dr. Murali, Mr. Sathish Kumar and Mr. Kalidoss, my student friends, for their meticulously going through the draft manuscripts / print outs.

I remain grateful to all the scholars and Government officials who have helped me during the course of my research work.

Last but not the least I thank all my family members and well wishers who have always stood by me with love and understanding. Their encouragement enabled me to complete this work and to emphasize a few names: Mr. C.N. Bhoopathy, Mrs. Kokilambal, Mrs. B. Umadevi, Mr. D. Velu, Mrs. Ammu Velu, Mr. D. Ramesh, Pr. Charmily, Pr. Shruthie, V. Nivedita and V. Naveena Bharathy.
