ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I am happy to take this opportunity to thank my supervisor Dr. S. Sankaran for his constructive and valuable guidance. True to the spirit of Scholarship, he encouraged free and frank discussion. I am very much indebted for his continued guidance even after his retirement from the regular Service. But for his inspiration and initiative, the thesis would not have emerged in its present shape. His constant encouragement and fatherly advice had been a great source of inspiration for me in carrying out my research work successfully. Words fail me to pay my deep debt of gratitude to him.

I am very much grateful to the management and principal of Gobi Arts College, Gobichettipalayam for having permitted me to undertake Ph.D. work on part-time basis and providing all facilities in the P.G. Department of Economics, Gobi Arts College, Gobichettipalayam.

I record my deep sense of gratitude to the University Grants Commission, New Delhi for financially supporting this research work.

I also like to express my sincere thanks to the District collector of Erode and Assistant Directors of Statistics of Erode and Coimbatore and all other taluk and block level officers who had helped me in gathering the data. My heartfelt thanks are due to the Joint Director of Agriculture, Periyar District and other officials of the Department of Agriculture for providing the technical facts regarding the agriculture of Periyar District.

My profound thanks are due to the Secretaries of Periyar and Coimbatore Market Committees, Superintendents and Staffs of various Regulated Markets for their help in collecting required data from their offices.

Above all, I must thank the Managers of Canara Bank (Lead Bank), Erode and Coimbatore and the Secretaries and Officials of Central Co-operative Bank of Periyar District and Coimbatore District for furnishing time-series agricultural credit and scale of finance data.

My special thanks are due to the Village Administrative Officers of the sample villages for their ungrudging help in my work.

I will be failing in my duty if I do not express my sincere thanks to all the farmer respondents. Besides, I acknowledge the valuable service rendered by the Professors and Students of Gobi Ars College in my field work.

My hearty thanks are due to the Director, Centre for Agriculture and Rural Development, Tamilnadu Agricultural University for having permitted me to computerise the data. My Special thanks are also due to the City Computers, Erode for processing the data and typing the thesis.
I would like to express my sincere appreciation to the Librarians and Staff of Tamil Nadu Agricultural University Coimbatore and Gobi Arts College for their timely help.

I am grateful to Dr. M. Thirunavukkarasu Principal, CBM College Coimbatore and Dr. C. Ramasamy, Tamil Nadu Agricultural University Coimbatore in sharing their thoughts with me over this topic of research.

My thanks are due to the members of my faculty who had been helping in the course of my research work.

Lastly my sincere thanks are due to the former Registrar of Bharathiar University, Prof. P.N. Silambannan and also the Vice Chancellors besides the Officials of the University.
