Notes

Chapter I

Introduction

4 Margaret Laurence, "Sources", Mosaic, No. 3 (Spring, 1996), 83.

7 Shirin Kudchedkar, Postmodernism and Feminism: Clarification and Problematizations (Delhi: Pencraft International, 1995) 133.

10 Linda, 113.

15 Margaret, Survival. 49.

16 Margaret Atwood, “True North”, Saturday Night, 102, No.1 (Jan 1987) 143.

17 Mordecai Richler, “Interview by Marlene Kadar”, Hutcheon and Richmond, 34.

21 Margaret, 39.

22 Rosemary, 32.

23 Northrop, 140.

27 Bruce King, 197.

29 William, 77.

30 Jameela Begum and B. Hariharan, “Northrop Frye as a Canadian

31 Dhawan, 26.

33 William, 99.

34 Parameswari, 1.

38 Coral, 4.

41 Coomi, 6.

43 Anita Desai, Where Shall We Go This Summer? (Delhi: Orient Paperbacks, 1988) 36.

46 Margaret, Survival, 35.

47 Margaret, 11.

48 Margaret, 14.

49 Shirin, 249.
Chapter II

Surviving Consumerism: The Edible Woman

5 Earl, 207.

16 Salat,65.

18 Sudhakar Pandey, “From being an Unaware Victim to Becoming a Creative Non-Victim: A Study of Two Novels of Margaret Atwood” by

19 Dhawan, 112.

22 J. Brooks Bouson, “The Anxiety of being Influenced: Reading and Responding to Character in Margaret Atwood’s The Edible Woman”, Style, 24.2 (Summer 1990) 288.

23 Keith, 56.

25 Keith, 56.

29 Linda, 15.

Chapter III

Surviving Duplicity: Lady Oracle

2 Earl, “Dancing on the Edge of the Precipice” by Joyce Carol Oates, 75.

3 Earl, “A Question of Metamorphosis” by Linda Sandler, 47.

7 Wilfred Cude, “Bravo Mothball! An Essay on Lady Oracle”

18 Barbara, 215.

20 J.R. Struthers, “Interview with Margaret Atwood”, Essays on Canadian Writing, 6 (Spring 1977) 25.

22 Barbara, 14.

23 Juliann, 63.

24 Coomi, 53.

25 Margaret, 346.
Chapter IV

Political Survival: Bodily Harm

6 Margaret Atwood, “Notes Towards the Poem that can Never be Written”, True Stories (Toronto: Oxford UP, 1981) 51.

8 Dorothy, 91.

10 Sharon, 137.

11 Dorothy, 93.

12 Brooks, 128.
13 Brooks, 12.
14 Dorothy, 86 - 87.
15 Dorothy, 96 – 97.
17 Brooks, 131.
18 Barbara, 121.
20 Elaine Tuttle Hansen, “Fiction and (Post) Feminism in Atwood’s Bodily Harm”, Novel, 19.1 (Fall, 1985) 11.
23 Wainwright, 583.
24 Jennifer Waelti, “Room of One’s Own – On Margaret Atwood’s Bodily Harm”, Tessera 8.4. (Jan, 1984) 121.

Chapter V

Surviving Theocracy: The Handmaid’s Tale

1 Margaret Atwood, “A Note to the Reader”. Books @ Random/The Handmaid’s Tale: Readers Group Companion file: //C:\WINDOWS\Desktop\New Folder (2)\handmaid- 4.htm

2 “An Interview with Margaret Atwood on her Novel The Handmaid’s Tale”, Books @ Random/The Handmaid’s Tale: Readers Group Companion file: //C:\WINDOWS\Desktop\New Folder (2)\handmaid- 11.htm

4 Earl 224.

10 Amin Malak, “Margaret Atwood’s The Handmaid’s Tale and the Dystopian Tradition”, Canadian Literature, No.112 (Spring, 1987) 13.

12 Annis, 11.

17 Amin, 13.

Chapter VI

Surviving Childhood Victimization: Cat’s Eye

3 Earl, 236.

7 Geoff Hancock, “An Interview with Margaret Atwood”, Canadian Fiction Magazine, No. 58 (1986) 142.

10 Lane, 73.

12 Sharon, 295.

14 Coral, 153.

15 Sharpe, 177.

16 Linda Sandler, “Interview with Margaret Atwood”, Malahat Review, 41 (Jan, 1979) 14.

17 Coral, 154.

18 Mickey, 66.

Chapter VII

Summing Up

1 Hedwig Book and Albert Wertheim, "The Novels of Margaret Atwood" by Diane E. Bessai, Essays on Contemporary Post Colonial Fiction (Germany: Hueber, 1986) 390.

2 Hedwig, 390.

3 Hedwig, 391.

4 Hedwig, 208.

7 Barbara, 115.

11 Barbara, 119.

13 Sunaina, 121.

15 Peter Prescott, “No Balm in This Gilead: Atwood conjures a terrifying totalitarian future”, Newsweek (17 Feb, 1986) 70.