The present piece of research attempts to study the unemployed in comparison with the employed and the entrepreneur involving expectancy-valence analysis to explain the possible differences between them. It focuses on motivational and attitudinal dimensions of the unemployed. Hopefully it might fill in the lacuna in literature where there is a dearth of studies on the employed comparing them with self-employed entrepreneurs.

I am grateful to Dr. S. John Michael Raj, M.A., M.Phil., PhD., Lecturer in Psychology for supervising this work but for whose support this work could not have seen the light of the day. I am also grateful to Prof. S. Narayanan, MA, Ph.D., Dip. in Stat., Professor and Head, Dept. of Psychology for constant encouragement given to me throughout the period of this research.

I am thankful to the Principals of the Govt. College of Technology, Coimbatore, the Coimbatore Institute of Technology and the P.S.G. College of Technology, Coimbatore, and the Directors of the National Small Scale Industries Corporation (NSIC) and the Coimbatore District Small Scale Industries Association (CODISSIA) and M/s. South India Viscose Ltd (SIV) and M/s. Premier Instruments and controls Ltd (Pricol), Coimbatore for providing me with useful information for selecting individuals to be included in the sample for the present study.
I acknowledge my thanks and appreciation to all the participants who willingly served as Subjects for this study and cooperated with me throughout the period of the investigation.

The Indian council of Social Science Research (ICSSR), New Delhi, for providing me a part-time research for one year in the project, directed by Prof. S. Narayanan.

I thank Dr. A. Sivakumar, Ph.D., Reader, Dept. of Linguistics, Bharathiar University for his help in translating the Questionnaire from English to Tamil, the regional language.

I am also thankful to the Authorities of the Bharathiar University for granting me admission to Ph.D. and also for awarding me a University Research Fellowship for two years (1991-1993) without which this work could not have been successfully completed.

I am also deeply indebted to my fellow research scholars Mr. P. T. Saleendran, M.A., Ph.D., Mr. S. Radhakrishnan, M.A., Ph.D., Mr. K. Sajjan Rao, M.A., Mr. K. Gopukumar, M.A., M.Phil., Mr. M. Venkatesan, M.A., M.Phil., Ph.D., and Mr. L. Venkatesh, B.E. at various stages in the preparation of this thesis.

I warmly remember my parents who have been constantly encouraging me in my pursuit of research and am thankful to all the emotional support rendered to me throughout my life.

S. Yuvaraj