ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The Scholarly enterprise is never the task of one person. It is therefore not easy to repay one's intellectual debts. The authors whose works have contributed to the comprehensiveness of this study can be discerned from the works cited. Besides these authors, there are those who have helped me along the way. At the outset I wish to thank the Director of Collegiate Education, Chennai for having graciously permitted me to pursue this research study.

First and foremost I am particularly grateful to my Supervisor and Guide Dr. K.S. Radhakrishnan who is at present the Principal of Shri Nehru Maha Vidyalaya College of Arts and Science, Coimbatore. He helped me in all possible ways in making my perception and interpretation of African American Autobiography with his scholarly suggestion and friendly criticism. I feel that I have benefited from his vision and his fearless way of thinking about new problems. Further I have been infected by his enthusiasm for this exciting subject.

There are many more persons who have influenced me. At this juncture I would like to mention Dr. S.S. Kumar who helped me conceive this topic. Moreover he was willing to sit down with me and ponder various problems I had on my mind.

Words are inadequate to express my deep sense of gratitude to Dr. Sreekumar, Dr. Meenakshisundaram and Pro. P. Selwin Cecil Rose who rendered help in the compilation of the final draft.
I remember with very great gratitude the fruitful advice and suggestions I received from Dr. K. Karunakaran, Department of Asian Language and Cultures, University of Michigan, U.S.A.

I sincerely thank Pro. Pandurangan, Head of the Department of English, and Dr. H. Mohamed Mubarack, M.Sc., Ph.D., Principal, Government Arts College, Coimbatore for providing necessary facilities.

My colleagues created a stimulating and encouraging environment. I am grateful to them for their kind and friendly support.

I take this opportunity to express my indebtedness to the Director, Librarian and other staff of Indo-American Centre for International Studies, Hyderabad for giving me an opportunity to use the materials available at the Centre for the preparation of this thesis. I am also grateful to the Librarians of the University Library of Chennai, American Information Center, Chennai, the Connemara Public Library, Chennai.

I express my heartfelt thanks to the invaluable help rendered by my husband and daughter, for their encouragement and support, which have been valuable to me. I wish to express my indebtedness to them for the sacrifice they had made in making my work a grand success. I also want to thank my nephews for their support and love.

S. NALINI