Acknowledgement
ACKNOWLEDGMENT

I would like to express my profound and sincere gratitude to Dr. P. Lakshmanaperumalsamy, Professor and Head, Department of Environmental Sciences, Dean, Faculty of Science, Bharathiar University, for his untiring efforts in encouraging and motivating me for his invaluable suggestions and immense scientific and intellectual freedom, and above all his personal approach towards science and humanity, have helped immensely in grooming me and bringing my scientific outlook to the present status. It is indeed a life-long privilege to have worked under his supervision.

I am grateful to Dr. C. Namashivayam, Dr. C. V. Subbhuaram, Dr. S. Balasubramanian, Dr. M. V. Usha Rani, Professors, Dr. M. Muthukumar, Lecturer and Dr. Usha K. Mehta, Honorary Scientist Department of Environmental Sciences, for their kind encouragement.

My sincere gratitude are due to ❖ Dr. G. Vivekanandan, Lecturer, Department of Microbiology, K. S. R. College of Arts and Science, Tiruchengode, esteemed teacher and advisor who introduced me to the basic aspects of research and sharing innovative and constructive ideas related to my research work.

❖ Dr. K. Savithamani, Post Doctoral Fellow, Department of Microbiology, Hallym University, Hallym, South Korea, for her constant encouragement, motivation, help throughout my work.
❖ Dr. Tha. Thayumanavan, Lecturer, Department of Microbiology, Sree Narayana Guru College, Coimbatore, for his highly constructive suggestion and extensive help with the direction of my research efforts and finishing the thesis.
❖ Dr. Duncan Colquhoun, Senior Researcher, Section for Fish Health, National Veterinary Institute, Oslo, Norway, for his moral support in strengthening the thesis.
❖ Dr. Garcia Castro-Escarpulli, Professor, and Ms. Ma. Guadalupe Aguilera-Areola, Department of Microbiology, Instituto Político Nacional, Mexico for their valuable support and timely help.
❖ Dr. K. R. Mani, Assistant Director and Mr. C. Palaniappan, Senior Research Officer, Pasteur Institute of India, Coonoor, The Nilgiris for their moral support, timely help and fruitful discussion.
❖ Dr. Geert Huys, Professor, Laboratorium voor Microbiologie, University of Gent, Gent, Belgium for his augment and rational help.
❖ Mr. Suresh. S. S. Raja, Lecturer, Department of Microbiology, K. S. R. College of Arts and Science, Tiruchengode, whose friendly suggestion has always helped me during this study.
❖ Dr. K. Shanthi, Reader, Department of Environmental Sciences, PSG College of Arts and Science, Coimbatore for her encouragement and timely help for this study.
Mr. R. Rajendran, Senior Lecturer, Department of Microbiology, PSG College of Arts and Science, Coimbatore, for his constant encouragement.

Dr. P. M. Ayyasamy, Mr. S. Rajakumar, Ms. A. Vijaya Chitra, Mr. P. Velmurugan, Ms. J. Rathinamala, Ms. S. Jayashree, Ms. S. Tamilarasi and all research scholars and student friends of the Dept. of Environmental Sciences, Bharathiar University.

I owe much more than formal thanks to Ms. D. Prabha, Technical Officer, and the Office staff, Dept. of Environmental Sciences, Bharathiar University for their timely help.

M/s. Ganga Saras Laboratory (Pattukottai), M/s. Masonic Child Care Hospital and M/s. KMCH (Coimbatore), Government Hospital (Tirupur and Pattukottai) and M/s. Sampath Hospital (Kovilpalayam) for providing the samples for this study.

I grateful acknowledge the love and support of my friends, which has been the source of sustenance during the entire course of my research carrier.

I owe my sense of gratitude to ALMIGHTY for endless blessings and keeping me in good health till the successful achievement of my thesis.

The last words are often the most precious and therefore I have chosen to save my gratitude for my parents, brothers and sisters for the ends. Their abiding comparison, sustained encouragement, extraordinary patience and their assiduous efforts in proving intellectual stimulation, since my childhood have enabled me to reach this far and spire beyond.

I dedicate this scientific endeavor to my beloved brother Mr. R. Sivakumar

SUBASHKUMAR, R.