BIBLIOGRAPHY

Books

22. K.D Saksena, (2002)”Dynamics of India’s textile economy-towards a pragmatic textile policy” p 171

29. Merrill, R.S (1968) contribution in D.L sills (Ed.,). Encyclopedia in social science, the Mac million press ltd., London.)

35. Sanker V. and Lakshmana swamy T, (1993), Methodology of applied economic research, the sterling publisher privet limited, New Delhi.

36. Scherer, F.M (1965)” Invention and innovation in the wail- boulton steem engine venture” technology and culture.).

Journals

32. Diwan K.L and Gujarati D.N (1968)” Employment and productivity in Indian industries: some question of theory and policy” Artha Vijnana, vol 10 No.1

33. Domar. (1946)’” Capital expansion, rate of growth and employment” econometrica, vol.14

35. Eckaus R.S (1955) “The factor proportions problems in under developed countries” American economic reviews, vol 45 no. 4

38. George C.Bitros and Epaminondas E.Panas (2006)”The inflation-productivity trade off revisited” journal of productivity analysis, volume 26 No1)

40. Goldar (1986) “Labour demand in Indian industries” The school of economics vol I No. 3

51. Inderpal kaur (1999)” Production function, technical change and factor substitution in Indian engineering industry” Anvesk, vol29, no.2

52. Irving, B Kravis (1976) “A survey of international comparisons of productivity, the Indian economic journal vol. 86.

53. Isher judge Ahluwalia (1990)” Productivity trends in Indian industry: concern for the nineties.” Productivity, vol 31, no1

55. Jatinder S.Bedi(2003)”Production, productivity and technological changes in Indian spinning sector” Indian economic review, vol XXXVIII, No.2

60. Kishore Sharma (2004)” The impact of policy returns on labour productivity, price–cost margin, and total factor productivity; the Nepalese experience” south Asian economic journal vol.5 no.1

62. Kumar A (1985) “Industrial development-a need for different thrust” Southern Economist, April pp 14-16

67. M. Upender (1995)” Elasticity of labour productivity in Indian manufacturing sector” productivity, vol: 36 no: 2)

70. Mohan Rao J (1996) “Manufacturing productivity growth” Economic and political weekly, vol 31. no. 44

84. Ravenker N.S (1971), "A class of variable elasticity of substitution production functions" economestica, vol. 39, no. 1

86. Reynolds L.G (1969) "Wages and employment in a labour surplus economy, American economic review, vol 55 no. 1

92. Sanker v. and lakshmana swamy T, (1993), Methodology of applied economic research, the sterling publisher privet limited, New Delhi.

96. Shetty S.L Industrial growth and structure: as seen through annual survey of India” Economic and Political Weekly. volume.XVII, no 40, October. pp (1661-1668)

100. Subas .C.Kumar (1999)” Productivity trends in Indian leather industry” the Indian economic journal, vol. 47. no.2

101. Subramanian M.S (1992)”Productivity growth in cotton textile industry in Tamilnadu” Indian journal of industrial relations vol.27. no.4)

103. Tarlok Singh (2000) “Total factor productivity in the manufacturing industries in India” the Indian economic journal vol.48. no.2)

104. Tendon K.K. (1984)” Changing pattern of industrial employment in Haryana” Indian journal of industrial relations” October, pp.232-

Dissertations

Reports

5. Economic Survey 2001-02, Government of India

6. Elisa Riihimaki (2005) "Economic integration and the elasticities of labour demand: econometric evidence from Finland" Discussion paper no. 46 ISSN 1795-0562

18. Planning commission reports on labour and employment economic India INFO services, Academic foundation, Bharath ram road. New Delhi

21. UNIDO Monographs on Industrial Development (1969) industrial planning UN’  New York No 17

22. Vikas Singal (2006) “Indian industry -2006” Indian economic data research centre

23. World bank (1989)” India poverty, employment and social services’ a World Bank country study, World Bank, Washington DC

Web Resources

1. www.wikipedia
2. www.infochangeindia.org
3. www.texmin.nic.in
4. www.economywatch.com
5. www.indiamart.com