ACKNOWLEDGMENT

It gives me great pleasure to place on record the debts I owe to the many people who helped me during the long years of my work on this thesis. First and foremost I feel highly obliged and greatly indebted to my Supervisor Dr. Satish B. Deshpande, Department of English, Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar Marathwada University, Aurangabad. This study could not have been completed without his constant guidance, inspiration, persuasion, patience and sympathetic attitude I enjoyed from him. I take this opportunity to extend my sincerest thanks to him.

I also thank Mrs. Havovi Kolsawalla, English Studies Officer in the British Council, Bombay Division, for helping me to have contact with various British Universities and Institutions to compile various materials from England. My thanks are also due to the Librarians of: London University, Edinburgh University, Oxford University, Leeds University, Wales University, the University of Durham and Duke University in America, for their kind co-operation and extending helping hands in this research.

My special thanks to G.A. Shah, Chief Research Officer in the Central Water and Power Research Station, Poona, for his valuable help in printing microfiche materials I received from various resources.

My thanks are due to staff of International Book House, Pvt. Ltd., Bombay, for their valuable assistance in importing various materials related to this study from abroad.
In connection with consulting archival materials in Sudan I would like to record my appreciation for help given by the keepers of Archives in Sudan.

I am also thankful to the Staff of Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar Marathwada University library. My thanks are due to Mrs. T.P. Jagtab, for providing me microfiche projectors and her patience to allow me to use them. My thanks are also due to Mr. Jagga RAO, Deputy Librarian in the CIEFL, Hyderabad, for extending all help and allowing me to make use of the facilities of the CIEFL library.

My thanks are also due to the Heads of Schools and Teachers of English at both the School Levels all over Sudan who extended helping hands in this research work.

I am grateful to all the members of my family. I wish to pay a tribute to my father the late MOHD. YEDDI whose inspiration initiated me into this study. My deep sense of gratitude to my mother for her encouragement and moral support. I am grateful to my brothers; Lateef; Raheem; Saeed; Hafiz; Hadi and Sabir. I do not think I could have completed this study without their cooperation, persuasion, inspiration, and I shall always remember, cherish and treasure their unfailing support.
