ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I am very much in debt to Dr. G.N. Sarma, Professor and Head of the Department of Political Science and Public Administrations, Marathwada University, Aurangabad for suggesting the topic of research and guiding the project throughout. I do not know if I could have ever completed the project without his guidance. I am also indebted to my colleagues, in the College, specially Mrs. K.V. Muley of Sociology Department for giving me her time and helping me with valuable suggestions. I am grateful to Prof. S.G. Bhogale of the Department of Statistics, Marathwada University for his valuable suggestions regarding methodology.

I am thankful to all the heads of educational institutions for the cooperation they extended in conducting the survey in their institutions and also to the teachers of History and Civics for their active cooperation. The Librarian of S.B. College, Shri Prabhakar Bhalerao is to be thankful for generously helping me with reference and other library facilities.
