Chapter 6

Students Profile & Trackers on CS21C
6. Introduction

The present chapter presents analysis and interpretation of data collected to address the objectives three and four, i.e.

Objective 3: To implement educational activities for exploring coping skills for 21st century among students of secondary level

Objective 4: To develop a tracker on the coping skills for 21st century

The objective three was studied by analyzing data collected through battery of tests, observations, field notes, interviews, focused group discussions and experiencing the field. The students were observed during curricular & co-curricular activities, school stay backs, implementation of activities designed and special events viz. annual function, Science day celebration, Farewell function to standard X and A school day. The chapter contains Group dynamics of the students of standard IX and Profile of students in terms of challenges faced, coping skills for 21st century employed and reflection (discussion) on their emerging profile by the investigator.

6.1. Group Dynamics of Students of Shannen School, Vadodara

A group of all twenty two students of Class IX of Shannen School has varied social interaction pattern. The class contains four formal groups i.e. Houses. The formal groups are presented as follow

!Fig 6.1: Formal Groups of the Class IX of Shannen School, Vadodara
House wise Group dynamics is presented as follow

Fig 6.2: Social Interaction of the Formal Groups

The class is distributed into five informal groups lead by the different students. These groups are based on shared interests of the members. It has been observed that members of these informal groups have comparable attributes.

Here, the group lead by Student 2, 12 & 17 is dominating group in the class, where as Groups of Students 6, 7, 10, 16 & 21 is least dominating group.

!Social Interaction of Students of Standard IX

Fig 6.4: Social Interaction of Students of Standard IX

It is evident from Fig. 6.4 that

- Star Students: Student 2, Student 1 is next to the star
- Pairs of Students: Students 1 & 20, Students 3 & 18
- Trios of Students: Students 2, 12 & 17; Students 5, 8 & 22; Students 6, 10 & 16
- Neglected Students of Standard IX: Students 9 & 15
- Isolated Students of Standard IX: Students 4, 8, 14 & 20

6.2. Profile of the Students

Profile of the students is a detailed record of the social interactions, observations made during classroom interactions, implementation of the planned educational activities, school functions and battery of test. The students have been observed for the identified components of the Coping Skills for 21st Century. The profile of the students was analyzed and the second analysis is presented in this chapter. The student wise social interaction, Profile, collective views Profile and reflection (Discussion) on the emerging Profile has been presented as follow:
6.2.1. Student 1 (AT)

Collective View on Social Interaction of Student 1

From the above figure, Student 1 has limited circle but he is admired by most of the classmates. He has limited interaction with few classmates. He is closely associated with Student 20 and both are sharing mutual cooperation. He is leading Red House due to his expertise.

- Thinking Skills
  - ✓ He has various diverse ideas for the task allotted to him. If he is not clear of the idea he discusses the same and tries to refine the ideas.
  - ✓ He has various ways to do the same task. Most of his ideas are driven from the educational channels he watches.
  - ✓ He is also open for the innovative ideas.
  - ✓ He can predict the flow of story by listening or reading the story.
  - ✓ He reflects on topics or processes with valid arguments and reasons
  - ✓ While doing any task, he considers the context.

- Reflective Skills
  - ✓ He knows his strength and weakness, and does SWOT analysis as and when needed.
✓ He is well aware of his relative role in the society.

- Problem Solving
  ✓ When any task is assigned, he will collect all the information, examine & explain through various dimensions and try to establish connections.
  ✓ He works with the most suitable alternatives and tries to examine the chosen alternate.

- Research Skills
  ✓ The observations he makes are minute and detailed, and based on these observation he draws inference by collecting and analyzing the data.

- Management Skills
  ✓ He is aware of his potential as well as of his fellows and assigns tasks as per their abilities. He gives clear instructions about the time, recourses and the strategies to be followed and consolidates the same.

- Self Directional Skills
  ✓ He will take initiation of task given in a small group and get fully engaged and devoted for the completion of the task.
  ✓ He takes decisions for the group work and takes responsibility of mistakes and takes whole accountability for his decisions.
  ✓ He takes decision by considering all the possible threats and opportunities.
  ✓ While teachers scold him, he regains normally within a small time period.

- Social Skills

</table>
- He is disciplined in new groups or places to begin with, but, as he gets familiar his behaviour changes.
- He uses social media excessively and does not have controlled communication.

CS21C Exhibited

- Study Skills
  - He is aware of various sources of data and knows how to access those.
  - He collects data and validates the same with reference to the relevance and credibility of sources.

- Thinking Skills
  - He has diverse ideas for doing any task.
  - Most of his ideas are driven by the educational channels he watches or the ideas he receives from others.
  - He is open for the innovative ideas given by friends.
  - Through his insight, he can predict the flow of story/processes by listening, reading or observing the part of the story/processes.

- Communication Skills
  - ✓ He communicates his ideas clearly.
  - ✓ He is good at public speaking and hosts programmes.

- Social Networking Skills
  - ✓ He has knowledge of various social media and how to utilize these.

CS21C Expected to be developed

✓ The decisions he makes are very often driven by emotions.

✓ He usually reacts on topics or processes, but, sharpness of the argument is very often missing.

✓ He is not open to the various innovative ideas other than that of friends.

✓ While doing any task, he considers only completion of task by any means without considering the context, circumstances or environment.

✓ He lapses in reflective skills and could know his strengths and weaknesses as identified by others.

✓ He is too much enthusiastic that he cannot hold the information he has obtained.

✓ He is slow at decision making.

✓ He is not good at self-monitoring.

✓ His tolerance level is low.

✓ He cannot retain relations.

✓ He rarely exercise flexibility and assume shared responsibility.

✓ He has flicker mind.

Collective View on Skills of Student 2

Student 2 is good at study skills, such as, info-savvy and information processing skills. He collects and analyzes the data but very often he is not in position to relate data into intelligible forms. He is not fond of reading, but explores knowledge and information from TV, educational channels and internet. He could transfer such knowledge to the similar situations for solving problems. He has creative as well as critical thinking skills. He takes up initiations, sets goals and plans, but, lacks consistency. He is slow at decision making but his decisions are firm. He is excellent in social relationship skills, but his self concept hinders in adjustment, acceptance and exercising flexibility. He does not collaborate well. Further, the social relationship skills are supported by communication skills. He is flexible in adaptation of new technologies, but, not flexible to the human relations.

Reflection on the Emerging Profile

To cope up with the 21\textsuperscript{st} century challenges and to meet the needs he requires developing some of the skills

- He has creative as well as critical thinking skills, which helps him to realize identity, understand complex situations and in solving problems. But due to lack of reading skills he is lacking connecting role of past in the prevailing conditions and also lapse in developing wholistic picture of complex functioning of society.

- He has skills of verbal communication, he could mingle well and communicates his ideas at various levels, but due to lack of collaborative skill he fails in working with unknown group members.

- His skills of ICT keep him updated with latest trends. Further, ICT skills are enriched through info-savvy skills.
6.2.3. Student 3 (ASF)

Fig 6.7: Social Interaction of Student 3

</table>
- She has clear purpose of writing but sometimes lacks lexicon.
- She can access information if the resources are known. She can assess credibility and validity of information.
- She can display the data in intelligible forms through coding, classifying, categorizing.

Thinking Skills
- She exhibits divergent ideas and very often these ideas are original.
- She is open and responsive to new and diverse perspectives and incorporates group input and feedback into the work.
- She asks significant questions that clarify various points of view and lead to better solutions.

Problem Solving
- She can identify causes of problems and find solution.
- She can determine affinity to the causes to find solution.
- She will check and recheck the best suitable solution time and again.

Reflective Skills
- She continuously examines the situations and self by doing SWOT analysis.

Research Skills
- She can formulate the research questions and hypothesis. He comes to the inference by analyzing and interpreting the collected data.
- She always looks for alternatives.
- She can bracket her point of views, perceptions and perspectives in collecting, analyzing and interpreting the data.
- She checks validity and reliability of the data.

Self-Management Skills
- She has clear self concept and identifies her potential. Based on that she sets her priorities. She would reach to the goals through proper strategies and monitoring.

Self Directional Skills
- She takes up initiatives and responsibility where she feels comfortable.

Social Skills
- She is sensitive to social interactions. She could mark slight changes in pattern of interactions.
✓ She welcomes new perspectives of society and responds to them by thorough examination of suitability.
✓ Her tolerance level is very high.
✓ She is well aware of social structure, social patterns and needs of the society in which she lives and exhibits ethical behaviour.
✓ In social interactions she observes decency, decorum and discipline.
✓ She exhibits empathy and fellow-feeling to the classmates, relatives and close concerned person.

- Communication Skills
  ✓ She is good at non-verbal communication.
  ✓ She is good listener and can code and decode the message.

CS21C Expected to be developed
✓ She reads line by line and draws out her own meaning but generally it is not accepted by the teachers as the oral expression is not intelligible.
✓ She lacks in identifying the sources and resources of information as she has limited skill of accessing.
✓ She is a conservative thinker and stick to the facts and never criticizes the established.
✓ She lapse in oral communications. She finds difficulties in interactions.
✓ She rarely uses social media as she has little awareness of their values.

Collective View on Skills of Student 3

Student 3 is good at reading skills and creative thinking skills. She is open to novel ideas as well as having original ideas. She could give creative expressions to her ideas in written form. But she lacks oral expression. Oral communication also hinders her collaboration with diverse groups. If she has been understood and accepted in diverse groups, then she exhibits social responsibility, synergy and management skills i.e. she can work dedicatedly and exhibit cooperation and fellow-feeling. Further, she actively involved in problem solving and consolidating the solution.

Reflection on the Emerging Profile

To cope up with the challenges of 21st and to meet the need, she is equipped but requires sharpening ICT and Communication skills
- She has reflective skills, creative thinking and self-management skills that make her comfortable in realizing own needs, understanding the situations, environment and set goals in complex world.
