ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Dr. C.V. Rangaswamy, M.A., Ph.D has been my guide in preparing this thesis. His constant encouragement and increased interest in the topic of my research have been the main source of inspiration to complete it. In fact he has been more than a formal guide as his approach to the modern problems of Land and Social change is realistic and to some extent much ahead of times. I have also the privilege of being the first student to submit the thesis under his supervision.

Despite of the busy schedule and official and academic pre-occupations, Dr. S. Settar, M.A., Ph.D (KARNATAK), Ph.D (CANTAB), Professor and Head, Department of History and Archaeology, Karnataka University, Dharwad, has spared no pains to enable me to bring the thesis uptodate. His sympathy towards me and his keen interest in my undertaking this study have placed me under an obligation which I can never repay.

A number of my well-wishers, Officers of the Department of Survey Settlement and Land Records and also of the Department of Revenue, Karnataka State, have helped me by making available the relevant records. My discussions with them have been corroborated with my own experience of fourteen years in the service of Government of Karnataka, in the Department of Survey Settlement and Land Records.

My thanks are also due to The Indian Council of Historical Research, New Delhi for having granted a contingency grant of Rs.2,000-00 for completion of the thesis.
