ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

To be in the Department of Politics and Public Administration, University of Madras, is a silken delight. More so is the pleasure when one is confronted with the resolute arguments of Dr. C. A. Perumal, M.A., LL.B., Ph.D., M.P.A. (S. Calif.), Professor and Head of the Department of Politics and Public Administration, University of Madras, Madras. I am convinced that words are inadequate to express my long standing intellectual debt to him. He encouragingly approved my research work.

Subsequent direction of the thesis, guiding me past many pitfalls, has been engineered by Sri. G. V. Balachandran and Dr. P. Balasubramaniam, heads of the Department of Politics and Public Administration. I am grateful to them.

Thiru J. Ramachandran, Director of Collegiate Education, Government of Tamil Nadu has enthused me by his deep interest in my progress. I am very much thankful to him.

V.K. BALASUBRAMANIAN.