ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The range of the works of Rabindranath Tagore, the first Nobel laureate for literature in Asia has become a popular field of study for more than half a century. Some research works have been done in recent years but these studies too, do not deal with all the major aspects, especially humanism, nationalism and pantheism which are found in the various works of Rabindranath Tagore in English translations.

'Humanism, nationalism and pantheism in the works of Rabindranath Tagore' is purely a product of my original research and it is only possible to materialize it for a generous, erudite and skilful person like my guide Dr. N. D. R. Chandra. He is not a person but a living God, my friend, philosopher and my pilot. Without his unmiserely help this research can never be completed.

I am deeply indebted to Dr. C. Kar who always helps and inspires me to continue my work. I sincerely thank to Dr. D. P. Quiti of Pt. Ravishankar Shukla University and Principal, Librarian and all Lecturers of Durga Mahavidyalaya.

I continue to be indebted to Ashisda who has typed all my research work without any trace of irritation in his face and Prof. Krishno Kundu, Prof. Jayanto Naskar, Prof. Dipannita Kundu, Prof Rajat Maji, and my friends, Nityananda Ghosh, Ranjit Biswas, Sanjib Hira, Promod Shukla and Soumen Shina.

I am also deeply beholden to my father Netai Chandra Koley for his constant and ungrudging help during the course of this work. My heartfelt thanks also go to my mother, Sunanda Koley who silently endures every inconvenience caused by academic preoccupation.
