The preparation of this work would not have been possible without the generous help received from several persons and institutions. It may not be possible to mention them all. I wish to record my indebtedness to them all. I will be failing in my duty if I do not express my profound gratitude to my teacher and guide, Dr. Ramachandran Nair, the former Director of Academic Staff College, University of Kerala, by guiding me to complete this work. He had taken special pain to see that I complete this work in time. I express my deep sense of gratitude to him. Dr. K. Ramachandran Nair, Head of the Department of Economics, University of Kerala, has been a constant source of inspiration and encouragement. I thank him sincerely. I am indebted to Dr. Karunakara Pillai and Dr. Kunhaman of the Department of Economics, University of Kerala for their assistance to complete this work. I am extremely grateful to my dear colleagues in my college for their generous help to complete this work. I am indebted to Prof. V.P. Rajappan for his help to correct the manuscript and my co-worker D. Murali, Department of Zoology, whose proficiency and competence in computer application has been of immense help to me for processing and analysing the data for the work. Outside my college, I have benefited from the services of a number of individuals, Shri. Dr. Jayachandran and Mr. Raju of Fisheries College, Panangad, Ernakulam, Dr. O.Divakaran, Executive, Matsyafed, Trivandrum, Dr. Mohanan Pillai, CDS, Trivandrum, the members of the Centre for Development Studies Library, Staff of P.C.O., Trivandrum, Members of the Fisheries College Library, Staff of University Library, Staff of CMFRI and MPDEA. I am happy to acknowledge my indebtedness to them. I have been further assisted by a number of other persons, including my students, fish traders, fishermen, Matsyafed officials and members of fishermen cooperative societies by suggesting sources of information and helping to collect data. I remember them with gratitude. I am also thankful to Mr. Sivadas for his expeditious, neat and prompt typing of the final manuscript. My indebtedness is beyond words to Geetha, my wife and co-worker and Vishnu and Sandra, my children, who bore with great grace and fortitude, the privations caused to them by my preoccupation with research. In spite of all the help and assistance, the shortcomings of this work that still remain are my own.

C. Viswanathan.
