ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I record here my deep sense of gratitude to late Dr. P. B. Desai, Professor and Head of the Department of Ancient Indian History and Culture and the Director, Kannada Research Institute, Karnataka University, Dharwad who encouraged me to undertake this study by permitting me to register for Ph.D. degree under his guidance. Unfortunately, I was deprived of his benevolent guidance due to his sad demise. But his successor in the Department, Dr. S. H. Ritti, kindly accepted me as his student and continued to guide me in my studies. But for his timely help and continuous guidance, it would have been impossible for me to complete my work and submit the thesis.

I express my grateful thanks to Dr. N. Ramesan, M.A., Ph.D., I.A.S., F.R.A.S. (London), Director of Archaeology and Museums and Sri Md. Abdul Waheed Khan, former Director, for kindly awarding me the part time research fellowship of the Department and permitting me to do the work and submit the thesis.

My thanks also are to late Dr. N. Venkataramanayya who encouraged me to take up the subject and permitted me to use his library. Words are in adequate for me to express my thanks to Dr. P. V. Parabrahma Sastry, but for whose constant help and sustained interest in me, my thesis would not have come to the present shape. I also express my thanks to the authorities of the Karnataka University, Dharwad for kindly permitting me to submit my thesis.
I also acknowledge with thanks the authorities of Archaeological survey of India, South-Eastern circle, Hyderabad for permitting me to visit several forts, which are their protected monuments and to take photographs and sketches. I also express my thanks to their monument attenders at several places, for rendering me necessary help in my field work. My thanks are also due to Dr. V. Kameswara Rao and Dr. Y. Gopala Reddy, for kindly going through the draft chapters and giving me necessary suggestions. My thanks also are due to Dr. V. V. Krishna Sastry, Chief Technical Officer, Archaeology and Museums and other officers and colleagues in the Department for extending their valuable help whenever I approached them.

In the end I express my thanks to Sri B. Satyanarayana Singh and Koteswaran who prepared the sketches for me. My thanks also are due to Sri B. Anjaneyulu, Proprietor, Balaji Studio, Tirupati for preparing the copies of the photographs in a short time. I will be failing in my duty if I do not express my sincere thanks to Sri P. Satyanarayana for typing the thesis in record time with diligence and care. Lastly my thanks are due to several scholars, colleagues, friends and well wishers who have helped me in preparing the thesis.
