REFERENCES

Bangar, Srinandan (2000), Groundwater resource evaluation, Development and management in Kurel Water Shed in Ratlam and Ujjain Districts, M.D., India, unpub. Thesis, submitted to Department of Applied Geology, 111

Gurunadh Rao, V.V. and Gupta, S.K. (1999), Modelling Contamination of drinking water supply well in the Sabarmati river bed aquifer,

Richards, L.A. (1954), Diagnosis and improvement of saline and Alkali soils, journal of hydrology vol. 41, pp. 345-361.

Ryzner (1944), A new index for determining amount of calcium carbonate scale

Sagar, B. and Prellor, C. (1980), Stochastic modeling of groundwater table

Saksena, R.S. (1985), Groundwater development in fractured rocks. Inter.
Workshop on Rural Hydrogeology and Hydraulics in fissured basement zone, Roorkee pp.179-190.

Sarma, V.V.J. and Narayanswamy, A. (1982), Areal distribution of monsoon rainfall in Vishakapatnam basin. Proc. of Seminar on Hydrogeological Investigations during last 25 years in India, Waltair, pp. 51-63.

Sarma, V.V.J., Prasad,N.V.B.S.S. and Rajendra Prasad, P.(1982),The geohydrochemistry of groundwater along Visakhapanam-Bhimilipatnam coast with regard to their utility to drinking, domestic and irrigation

Schoeller, H. (1959), Geochemistry of groundwater, Arid zone hydrology recent development, UNESCO, 54.

Schumm, S.A. (1956), The Evolution of drainage systems at Perth Amboy, New Sharma, S.K. (1985), Remote sensing application in groundwater exploration - Case study from Peninsular India. Inter. Workshop on rural hydrology and hydraulics in fissured basement zone, Roorkee, p. 225.

Strahler, A.N. (1952), Dynamic basins of Geomorphology,

Young, A. (1972), Slopes, Oliver and Hoyd, Edinberg.