ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Ever since I joined the staff of the office of the Government Epigraphist for India, Ootacamund in 1956 I have been interested in the study of epigraphical records from South Kanara mainly because their contents have an identity of their own. Dr. G.S. Dikshit, Head of the Department of History, Karnatak University, has kindly provided me with an opportunity to put down the results of my studies in the form of the present thesis.

Words are a poor means of amply reflecting my gratitude towards my revered guide Dr. G.S. Dikshit. But for the kindly interest he had taken in my work right from the beginning and but for the many valuable suggestions he had given at all stages for corrections and improvements, the present work may have contained a greater number of shortcomings than it does now. My thanks are due to Dr. S.H. Ritti and Dr. B.R. Gopal, both of the Department of Ancient Indian History and Culture, Karnatak University, for kindly going through the chapters of the thesis and for making valuable suggestions.

I am grateful to Dr. G.S. Gai, Government Epigraphist for India, Ootacamund for the ready permission sanctioned to me for utilising the published and unpublished epigraphical material lying in his office. I owe much of my knowledge in Kannada epigraphy to the strenuous training I have received under his guidance.

I am indebted to the Director General of Archaeology in India, New Delhi for kindly permitting me to submit this thesis.

Ootacamund, 15.8.1965.
