

PREFACE

I thank the Syndicate of the University of Madras for having permitted me to do research as a part-time candidate in the Department of Ancient History and Archaeology. I am thankful to the Director of Collegiate Education, Tamilnadu for having granted me permission to pursue the research.

It is with deep sense of gratitude I express my obligation to Dr.K.V.Raman, Professor and Head, Department of Ancient History and Archaeology, University of Madras who was kind enough to offer facilities for studying the subject under his supervision. I have received constant guidance from him at different stages of my study. His affectionate care, unstinted advice and encouragement made my part of the work easy in such a specialised subject demanding access to a number of disciplines.

I express my thanks to the Indian Council of Historical Research, New Delhi for providing me a grant-in-aid for my research work.

During my research I had the necessity and opportunity to avail myself of the facilities in Madras

University Library, Adyar Library, Dr.U.V.Swaminatha Iyer Library, Maraimalai Adigalar Library, Indological Research Library of C.P.Arts Centre, Santhi Sadan, Madras, Archaeological Survey of India, Southern Region, Mysore, Archaeological Survey of India Library at Fort St.George, Madras, French Institute of Indology in Pondicherry, the American Institute of Indian Studies in Varanasi for which I am grateful to the concerned institutions.

I could collect valuable photographs from the French Institute of Indology in Pondicherry, the American Institute of Indian Studies in Varanasi, Archaeological Survey of India in Madras and Madras Museum for which I am thankful to the authorities of respective institutions.

I am deeply indebted to Prof.C.Jaganathachari and Prof.T.K.Parthasarathi for their valuable help and advice in this project at every stage.

My thanks are also due to the various scholars, authorities of the temples and priests who have thrown considerable information during my field study.

I thank the Principals of Bharati Women's College, Madras and A.A.Government Arts College, Walajapet, for their kind encouragement throughout my research.

I express my sincere feeling of indebtedness to my colleagues and friends who gave me inspiration and suggestions for my thesis.

The presentation of this thesis is neatly executed by Thiru E.Sampath who has evinced considerable interest and for which I am thankful to him.

My thanks are also due to Thiru R.Venkatesan and Priya Studio for providing me photo prints and Mr.Rajendran for getting me the temple plan.

In conclusion I should express my indebtedness to all the members of my family, young and old, who have been a source of strength and inspiration to enable me to complete my work and in particular to my beloved father M.C.Srinivasan, Advocate.

M.C. VASANTHA.
