Bibliography

Primary Sources

Secondary Sources

Books

Journals

Balachandran, K. “Cultural Issues in Uma Parameswaran’s Dear Deedi, My Sister.”

Dahiya, Jyoti Jakhar. “In Search of Roots: A Study of Uma Parameswaran’s Rootless but Green are the Boulevard Trees.” _The Commonwealth Review_ 12.2 (2010). 104-118. Print

Ganesan, S. “The Ambivalent Note: A Critical Study of Uma Parameswaran’s Sons

Gupta, Monica. “Cultural Pluralism in Uma Parameswaran’s The Sweet Smell of Hemalatha, K. “Evolution from Clannish Exclusivity to Collective Solidarity: A Study of Uma Parameswaran’s Mangoes on the Maple Tree.” _The Vedic Path_ 80.3

Indira, S. “Towards the Centre: The Writings of Uma Parameswaran.” _The Commonwealth

Joshi, Rita. “Nations and Alienation: Diaspora in Recent Indian Fiction.” _India International

Kelly, Duncan. “Multicultural Citizenship: The Limitations of Liberal Democracy.”

Reviews

Web Sources

