LIST OF TABLES

1.1 Growth of trade unions.
1.2 Workers involved and mandays lost in strikes and lockouts in India.
1.3 Opinions of managers, union leaders and workers about the best method of collective dispute resolution.
1.4 List of sample units.
1.5 Category-wise respondents of sample units.
1.6 Manager respondents according to the level of position held by them.
1.7 Union leaders according to position held in the union.
3.1 Resolution of disputes by collective bargaining.
3.2 Industries covered by the collective agreements of the Employers Federation of India Survey.
3.3 Subjects covered by the collective agreements of the Employers Federation of India Survey.
3.4 Mandays loss and Severity of Industrial Disputes
3.5 Disputes resolution by different methods of settlement.
3.6 Respondents' perception about government policy and collective bargaining.
4.1 Brief profile of sample units.
4.2 The general profile of unions of sample units.
5.1 Perceptions of union leaders and workers about the preparation of charter of demands.
5.2 Perceptions of management and union leaders about the nature of charter of demands.
5.3 Charter of demands: Gap Analysis—demanded and accepted in a company...........(I)
5.4 Charter of demands: Gap Analysis—demanded and accepted in a company ..........(II)
5.5 Charter of demands: Gap Analysis—demanded and accepted in a company ..........(III)
5.6 Charter of demands: Gap Analysis—demanded and accepted in a company ..........(IV)
5.7 Charter of demands: Gap Analysis—demanded and accepted in a company ..........(V)
5.8 Charter of demands: Gap Analysis—demanded and accepted in a company ..........(VI)
5.9 Charter of demands: Gap Analysis—demanded and accepted in a company ..........(VII)

5.10 Time schedule of collective bargaining process. 169
5.11 Lead time requirement for charter of demands. 171
5.12 Timing analysis of submission of charter of demands. 173

5.13 Invitation process to consider charter of demands. 175
5.14 Bargaining agency for collective bargaining. 177
5.15 Criteria for the selection of union negotiators. 180
5.16 Perceptions of workers about union leaders. 183
5.17 Selection of management negotiators. 186
5.18 Administration of collective bargaining agreements in terms of time schedule. 192
5.19 Conflict resolution machinery—Bipartite, Tripartite and Adjudication. 195

5.20 Perceptions of management and union leaders about contentious issues during negotiation. 197
5.21 Attitudual perceptions about the nature of collective bargaining. 200
5.22 Attitudual perceptions of management and union leaders during negotiation. 201
5.23 Structure of collective bargaining and unions in sample units. 203
6.1 Issues covered under collective bargaining.
6.2 Economic and uneconomic issues under LTA.
6.3 Distribution of charter of demands in economic and uneconomic issues.
6.4 Attitudinal disposition of respondents about the subject matter of collective bargaining.
6.5 Sources used to discover grievances
6.6 Perceptions of respondents about the effectiveness of Grievance Settlement Machinery in their organisations.
6.7 Perceptions of respondents about the objectives of Grievance Settlement Machinery in their organisation.
7.1 Attitudinal disposition about the impact of collective bargaining.
7.2 Perceptions of respondents about labour management relations.