ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

I am indebted to a large number of people for their support, personal as well as professional, over the years of working on this thesis. I would like to explicitly thank:

First and foremost, all the Tharu Tribe community members, individuals and families of my sample villages and office bearers in Khatima Tehsil of Udham Singh Nagar District in Uttaranchal who helped me in the research and shared personal views of their lives with me and for taking and showing keen interest in my research work. Without their support this study would not have been possible.

I also owe a big debt of gratitude to many people who gave me sound advice about how to transform my ideas into coherent set of written words. I am particularly thankful to Prof. Yogendra Singh. Thanks him for providing detailed and perceptive commentaries at every stage of this thesis. He read draft after draft and, through his gift of uncovering flaws in what appears to be the clearest of arguments, he gave through provoking conversations and insightful comments with just the right balance of criticism and appreciation. Though native questions, wrong turn and rough drafts, he never lost patience but imparted advice and wisdom in a nurturing manner. His dedication to his students is an inspiration and I will feel fortunate if I have picked up only a small bit of his unshakeable sense of research direction, technical understanding and good nature, all of which have improved my PhD experience.

My thanks are due to the officials at CCS University and Library, Nehru Memorial Museum and Library, National Social Science Documentation Centre and Jawaharlal Nehru University Library who helped me in locating references related to my research theme.
I am also thankful to Professor (Dr) J.K. Pundir, Mr. Y.P. Singh, Dr. Alok Kumar, Dr Siddiqui of C.C.S. University, Meerut for their valuable suggestions and encouragement.

Sincere thanks also go to all my colleagues for their friendship, support and constructive criticisms at different stages of the thesis. I feel indebted to my husband Amit Malik for his love, support and patience over the years. He always stood with me and giving me the required strength and confidence to complete this thesis. I owe extra love and affection to my little daughter Mudra who felt neglected during the course of my work. My thanks also to those whom I could not name and they helped me at different stage of the thesis.

Last and not the least, I owe a lot to my mother who always inspired me for academic pursuits and dedicate this work to her.
