ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First and foremost, it is my sincere deep sense of appreciation and indebtedness to my research guide Dr. Bhaben Chandra Kalita, Retired Professor and Head, Department of Geography, Cotton College-Guwahati-1 for his continuous guidance, encouragement, and suggestions throughout this study from his wide knowledge and unique experience. I also have to extend my deep gratitude to him for his supervision of my research work and critical review of the draft of this thesis and giving his kind consent to pursue the Ph.D. work in the department.

I offer my sincere thanks to Professor Bimal Kar, honourable Head of the Department of Geography, Gauhati University for providing me with all the necessary facilities and support to complete my research work in time. It's a privilege to attend the IIG, Geography congress, with a paper, organized by the Department, during this period.

I have great pleasure to express my gratitude to all the honourable faculties of both Department of Geography of Gauhati University-Guwahti and Department of Geography, Cotton College-Guwahati for their motivation and encouragement, whenever approached. Honourable Prof. A K Bhagabati, Prof. A.K.Bora, Prof. A Saikia, Dr. D Saharia, Dr. P Bhattacharya, Dr. M. Das, Prof. U.D. Baruah, Dr. Nityananda Deka of the Department of Geography, Gauhati and Prof. P. Sarma, Prof. J. Borah of Cotton College are few of the names that crosses my mind at this moment, for their help and suggestions during the course of the study.

I sincerely acknowledge the help and suggestion made by the officials and staffs of various organizations, whom I have to approach at various point of time for data, map and other related information. Office of the Census Organization, Guwahati, Government Press at Bamunimoidam, officials of District Disaster Management Authority, Kamrup, Assam State Disaster Management Authority, Guwahati Metropolitan Development Authority, Indian Meteorological Department, Barjhar, Water Resource Department, Chandmari Assam Remote Sensing Application Centre, are few of them having supported me during collection and analysis of data. In addition a special thanks and token of affection goes to the officials of Bosco Reach Out, an NGO for social development in Assam, who had supported me in various ways during my days with them.

I acknowledge my sincere gratitude to University Grant Commission (UGC), New Delhi for funding the grant under the scheme of Minor Research Project through UGC North Eastern regional Office (UGC-NERO). It is during this project, titled 'Community Based Identification and Assessment of Hazard Vulnerability in Kamrup (Metro) District, Assam' (vide UGC letter No. F.5-85/ 2010-11/ 5217, dated 14-3-2011) that I got a chance to carry out the field investigation part of my study. In this connection, it will be a total unfair if I don’t express my thankfulness to Mr. Sudhir Sarma, a freelance consultant having ample NGO experience for his timely help in the base line survey of the randomly selected flood vulnerable villages of Sonapur and Chandrapur. I would also like to thank Dr. Manos J. Nath, of USTM for his encouragement and guidance throughout the period, especially in dealing with the GIS part of map making. I am extremely indebted to Dr. Nath, who is like a brother of mine and two of his student Arup and Surojit for assisting me during my field visit. I offer my sincere thanks to all other people whom I met during this long journey of pursuing my research, who have added valuable inputs to my thought process time and again. Few of the names that I have to humbly take here are Haruhisa Asada of Nara women’s University, Japan, whom I met and talked at many occasion during his visit to Gauhati University, Dhanjit Deka of B. Baruah College, Dr. M. Kar of Nogaon College, A. Kundu of Allahabad University, Prof Hermann Kreutzmann of Freie University, Berlin, visited as Chief guest during Indian Institute of Geographers meet at Gauhati University in February, 2015, who incidentally chaired the technical session, where I had the chance of presenting my research paper, B. Bhuyan a research scholar of JNU, New-Delhi, for their kind support, suggestions and cooperation. I offer my sincere thanks to my colleague Dr. Rajan Sarma, Dr. Chittaranjan Baruah and Dr. Simanta Hazarika of Darrang College, Tezpur, for necessary helps whenever approached for.

I, offer my heartiest appreciation to seminar organizers of International Geographical Union (IGU) commissioned seminar at Cotton College, National Association of Geographer’s (NAGI) conference at Rajasthan University and Indian Institute of Geographers (IIG) meet at Gauhati University, for selecting and allowing my research paper for presentation. It is my humble thankfulness to the publishers of research journal of Darrang College and Cotton College, for selecting my papers for publication in time. These are some fulfilling experience from the academic viewpoint.

Last but not the least I would like to extend my regards to my parents, in-laws and my family, especially my wife Manoshi Thakur and son Jishnu for motivating me and bearing with my ups-and-downs and thereby help me focused to my goal.
Above all, I thank the unseen divinity for blessings and goodwill, entrusted on me to complete my research work.
