ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This thesis arose in part out of years of research that has been done since I came to contact of Gauhati University. By that time, I have worked with a great number of people whose contribution in assorted ways to the research and the making of the thesis deserved special mention. It is a pleasure to convey my gratitude to them all in my humble acknowledgment.

In the first place I would like to record my gratitude to Professor Dilip C. Nath for his supervision, advice and guidance from the very early stage of this research as well as giving me extraordinary experiences throughout the work. Above all and the most needed, he provided me unflinching encouragement and support in various ways, which exceptionally inspire and enrich my growth as a student, a researcher and a teacher want to be. I am indebted to him more than he knows. It is a sweet memory to be remembered throughout my life to work under his able guidance and companionship.

I take this opportunity to express my gratitude to Professor Hemanta K. Baruah for his personal letter which bought me in Guwahati University and all the faculty members as well as Professor L. Choudhury, Head of the Department of Statistics, Gauhati University for their instructive suggestions and encouragement at various stages of research work.

I wish to thank all the research scholars and staffs of the Department of Statistics for their all time cooperation. Special thanks to Dr. Nazrul Islam, an ex-research scholar of the Department of Statistics, Gauhati University as well as Assistant Professor of Shahjalal University of Science and Technology, Bangladesh for his all round help in all respect.

I wish to thank all the persons who help me directly or indirectly during my data collections. I express special gratitude to Mr. D. Laxmindra Sinha and Mr. Biplobjit Rajkumar of New India Assurance Company Limited for their valuable help during secondary data collection, without which perhaps my research is not possible.

I owe my deep sense of gratitude to my parents, who brought me in this beautiful world, instilled in me the desire to succeed academically, and loved, supported and sacrificed for me throughout my careers. The present thesis is an effort to implement the dream of my mother Late Bijaya Rajkumari. The acknowledgement cannot be concluded without expressing appreciation to my brothers and sisters for their support.

Finally, I would like to thank everybody who was important to the successful realization of thesis, as well as expressing my apology that I could not mention personally one by one.

(Sri Prasenjit Sinha)