A great privilege it is, indeed, to express my deeply heartfelt gratitude to my learned and most respectable guides Prof. R.C.D. Kaushik, Head, Department of Spinning and Director, Technological Institute of Textiles, Bhiwani, and Dr. K.R. Salhotra, Professor, Department of Textile Technology, Indian Institute of Technology, Delhi, for their enlightening guidance and motivating inspiration in the most critical phases of this work, without which this stupendously unwieldy task would not have budged an inch and seen the light.

I would earnestly like to thank some of the people who contributed directly or indirectly to the accomplishment of this project. I especially wish to thank Prof. S.K. Manuja and Prof. R.K. Singh, Technological Institute of Textiles, Bhiwani, for their detailed comments, critical and helpful suggestions which indescribably helped me in the most crucial stages of my thesis, and Shri R. Venkatraj, a Research Scholar, Indian Institute of Technology, Delhi, for his much needed assistance in computational work and Dr. T. Radhakrishnan, Director, ATIRA, for providing valuable spinning facilities.

It would be greatly unthankful of me if I do not express my grateful appreciation for the contribution the laboratory staff of Spinning and Textile Testing, T.I.T., Bhiwani, made to make the project viable. Special thankful mention must be made of Shri Anil Sharma and Shri Kishan
Kumar Ahluwalia as well as Shri B.M. Jindal, an alumnus of T.I.T. Bhiwani, all of whom extended invaluable help in this regard.

I also owe my immense indebtedness to M/s GRASIM Industries, Nagda for providing me financial aid and viscose-rayon fibre, and to Shri V.K. Gupta, General Manager, J.K. Synthetics Ltd., Kota, for supplying acrylic fibre. My heartiest thanks go to Mr. Rajesh K. Arora, Department of Textile Technology, I.I.T., Delhi, for painstakingly producing such an excellent typescript.

Words elude me to describe my gratitude to my parents, my first and best teachers, who led me believe early in life that I could be and do anything I set my mind to. It would be a sin not to mention the untold sacrifices my wife, Mrs. Chitra and daughters Vidhu and Shubhi made and patience displayed during this period of stress and strain. At last, I thank all my friends and colleagues who have helped me in this work directly or indirectly.
