ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I feel great privileged to record my profound sense of gratitude and indebtedness to my esteemed Teacher and Guide Dr. U.C. Sarma, Vice-Chancellor of Srimanta Sankaradeva University of Health Sciences, Guwahati, Assam for his unfailing guidance and unwavering patience throughout the period of this research. His wide knowledge and his logical way of thinking have been of great value for me. His understanding, encouragement, meaningful criticism and personal guidance have provided a good basis for the present thesis. It would be impossible for me to express my gratitude by mere words on paper. I was blessed to have such a Guide like Dr. U. C. Sarma to turn to at all hours. His expertise in Community Medicine and his passion for research always encouraged me in the course of my research project work.

My warm and sincere thanks to Dr. (Mrs.) Swapna D. Kakoty Associate Professor Deptt. of Community Medicine, Fakhruddin Ali Ahmed Medical College and Hospital, Barpeta for her valuable and constructive suggestions and above all her readiness to help me with the finest details from the beginning of my research project.

I would like to thank Dr. Ruma Talukdar, Assistant Professor, Deptt. of Statistics, Cotton College, Guwahati for helping me in statistical processing and editing of the data. I am grateful to her for her favour.

My most sincere thanks go to the President, Secretary and Leader of the selected slums of Guwahati city, where the study was conducted for their help and cooperation.
I extend my sincere thanks to the children and parents of the study subjects who consented to participate in the study and extended their whole hearted co-operation.

I owe my loving thanks to my husband Dr. Kanak Chandra Das, without whose sacrifice, encouragement, understanding and constant help it would have been impossible for me to complete this project work. My daughters Antara and Ankita whose continuous encouragement and support gave me the strength and belief to complete my study.

It is my great pleasure to dedicate this humble piece of work to my respected late mother-in-law and my beloved late parents.

I also thank one and all, who helped me directly or indirectly in successful completion of the project.

Last but not the least, I pay my humble salutations to the Lord Almighty, whose mighty presence made this study possible.
