Poverty, Unemployment and Development Policy

provides a case study of some selected issues with reference to the state of Haryana. This study begins with a brief account of the economy of Haryana and examines the issues of poverty, land reforms, population growth and unemployment, wage rates, and development policy in the context of the economy of Haryana. In the conclusion, this study makes certain suggestions for the better formulation and implementation of development policy in future so that the problems of poverty and unemployment can be tackled within a better and pragmatic way.

Poverty, unemployment and Development Policy is a research work of mine for the award of the degree of 'Doctor of Philosophy' submitted to Maharshi Dayanand University, Rohtak. I am highly grateful to my teacher Dr. S. Bhagwan Dahiya, Head of the Department of Economics, for his valuable comments and guidance. I am also thankful to Maharshi Dayanand University for awarding me a research fellowship for this study.

Throughout the drafting I have profited from the comments and criticisms of a number of colleagues and teachers of the department of Economics. In particular, I would like to thank Dr. Surinder Kumar, Dr. Kailas Sarap, Mrs. Anita Dagar and Mr. Atul Sood.
In the end, I wish to place on record my thankful appreciations for the co-operation extended to me by Mr. S.P. Sharma I.A.S. and Mr. Virender Singh, Chairman of the Haryana Sugar Federation, and by the staff of the Maharshi Dayanand University library, ICSSR Library, Sapru House Library, Jawaharlal Nehru University Library, I.I.P.A. Library and the Rattan Tata Library of the Delhi School of Economics.
