ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Loads of gratitude is due to all the people and processes that made this doctoral work possible for me. But first and foremost, I thank the Lord Almighty for giving me the strength and insight at various stages of the study, and gracing me with his selfless love and care.

I am highly obliged to Dr. Prateek Kanchan, whose constant guidance and unfailing support enriched the study. I am grateful to him for having faith in me and always being accessible and providing motivation throughout the duration of the research. I am also very thankful to Dr. P. K. Mehta (Director – L. J. Institute of Management Studies) for his moral and morale support. I would also wish to thank Gujarat University to provide me a platform to undertake my doctoral studies.

The research drew a lot of inferences from interviews and discussions with industry experts as well as academicians who have done their doctoral work in the field of micro-finance. I am indebted to Dr. Siddarth Singh Bist (Dean – L. J. Institute of Management Studies), who supported me in achieving various milestones of the study and was a great source of references for carrying out primary research. The questionnaire would not have taken its present form without the expert advice of Dr. Neha Shah (Faculty - L. J. Institute of Management Studies) and Dr. Arpita Amarnani (Faculty – Somlalit Institute of Management Studies), while also being validated by many professionals belonging to the micro-finance industry. My sincere thanks to Dr. Mallikarjuna (Faculty – Nirma Institute of Management Studies) for providing his valuable comments and suggestions during the periodical reviews of the thesis.

There are many people to thank for contributing unconditionally and adding value to this work. I am highly grateful to Mrs. Jayshree Vyas (Managing Director), Ms. Bhumika Mehta (Project Co-ordinator), Ms. Daksha Trivedi (Branch Manager), Bhaviniben and Kesarben (Facilitators) affiliated to SEWA Bank. I am equally thankful to Father Joseph Appavoo (Director), Ms. Meena Christian (Project Co-ordinator), Taralikaben and Nilaben (Facilitators) affiliated to Kaira Social Service Society. I owe my thanks to Mr. Rakesh Kumar (Vice President – Operations), Mr. Vidur Shukla (Manager), Mr. Prashant Banerjee and Ms. Dipal Vyas from Light Microfinance Pvt. Ltd. So also, I am thankful to Ms. Purvi and Ms. Mallika from Pahal Microfinance. I am also very grateful to Mrs. Bhavna Bhatt and Mr. Dipak Dangar from MAS Financial Services for linking me to micro-finance companies. At this juncture, I cannot forget to thank Mrs. Anjali Dhaval Mehta and Mr. Umanath Mishra from ISMW (Indian School of Microfinance for Women) whose initial inputs showed the way forward in this research.

I also take the opportunity to thank all the respondents of questionnaire for giving their time and cooperation during the venture. These women were not only kind enough to spare their break time in answering the research questions, but also showed tremendous hospitality and made the process of data collection, an experience worth cherishing. I extend my gratitude to fellow research scholars who were always there to share their experiences and knowledge which solved many methodological issues. A special word of thanks to my mother and her colleagues (Mrs. Rekha Paul, Mrs. Adarsh, Ms. Sonal, Mrs. Maya, Mrs. Preeti and Mrs. Hiran) for accompanying me to the distant rural areas for the purpose of data collection. I am also grateful to Salimbhai for arranging the logistics.

Finally, I cannot think I would have started, or for that matter even completed my study without the unfading support of my family whose words of inspiration and appreciation triggered my zest to work. I am thankful to everyone, right from my parents-in-law (Bela and Manoj Bhatt) to my parents (Rupa and Manish Majmudar) and grandparents (Malti and Pushpavadan Majmudar). Words cannot convey my gratitude towards my husband, Dr. Shahir Bhatt who acted as the backbone and never failed me in crucial times. A final thanks to the sparkle of my eyes, my son, Manav. Inspite of his tender age, he showed the maturity to let me spend long hours at work.

Lastly, I thank all those whom I have not quoted unknowingly, but have helped me directly or indirectly.

Ms. AMOLA MAJMUDAR
