ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The present thesis is the outcome of my enrolment as a Ph. D. student in the Department of Commerce, Gauhati University, a centre of excellence for higher learning and research.

When we decided to undertake this research, the rural development scenario of the country in general and Assam in particular has undergone a drastic change. This was precisely the context which stimulated us to search deeper into the theme of the thesis in a serious, methodological way. Hence this research was done.

I am indebted to my most respected teacher, Prof. Padmalochan Hazarika, Department of Commerce, Gauhati University, my supervisor, who not only provided me with the usual guidance but also illumined my thought in many memorable ways. It was a rare honour for me to see how this highly respected and known intellectual patiently went through each and every word of mine. The arguments and counter-arguments emanating from this prolific mind have definitely enriched my work. No word of gratitude would suffice to express our obligation to him.

I am also grateful to the Head of the Department of Commerce, Gauhati University and the learned faculty members of the Department for their inspiration during the period of my study.

I am highly indebted to the authority of K.K. Handique library, Gauhati University, NIRD library Guwahati, SIRD library Guwahati, OKD Institute of Change & Development, Guwahati, NEDFI, Guwahati, Office of the Directorate of Panchayat and Rural Development, Guwahati, for kindly allowing me to use their library resources for the purpose of my study.

I would also like extend my gratitude to Maa, Deuta, Baidew and all family members, my colleagues of Dispur College, Guwahati, my friends and of course, my wife Barnali, for sharing with me some of the stresses and strings that the writing of this thesis involved, all of whom stood by me through thick and thin, imbued me with inspiration and helped me in every conceivable way. I also offer my heartfelt thanks to Dr. Amar Saikia, principal Dispur College, Dr. Nandini Barooah, Vice Principal, Dispur College, Dr. Jyotish Goswami, HOD Department of Commerce, Dispur
College, Dr. Manjaree Sharma, HOD Department of English, Dispur College and Hemanta Kumar Boro, Dispur College, whose well wishes were a guiding force in successfully completing the work.

With these words, we present our thesis for favour of examination by academic authorities.

Date: 19-07-2013
Place: Guwahati

Ajay Kumar Deka