I express my heartiest gratitude to my supervisor Dr. Prasant Kumar Saikia, Professor, Department of Zoology, Gauhati University, under whose guidance and supervision this work has been completed. I am thankful to him for being extremely kind and generous in giving me the opportunity and guidance to work for this degree. I am thankful to the Head, Department of Zoology, Gauhati University, for their valuable suggestions at times. The help rendered by the teachers and staff of the Department of Zoology, Gauhati University is highly acknowledged without which the entire PhD project would have been very difficult.

I express my heartfelt thanks to Dr. Vijay Veer, Director, Defence Research Laboratory, Tezpur, for his guidance, monitoring and encouragement for executing my research works.

I am sincerely thankful to Sumit Kumar Dhimai, Scientist, Defence Research Laboratory, Tezpur, for his help and giving me a constant inspiring force right from the beginning.

I am thankful to Dr. S. Banerjee, Scientist, Defence Research Laboratory, Tezpur, for his help and valuable suggestions.

I am indebted to Manash Jyoti Nath for his help and support.

No words of appreciation would be enough for my colleagues Bipul Rabha and Diganta Goswami for their help in field work.

I would like to acknowledge all my friends especially Nisha Parveen for their constant encouragement and moral support.

I would also like to thank Sukh Ram Boro, Ranjit Baruah, Mohan Daimari and Buboi Gwala, technical staff of Medical Entomology Division for their assistance during the field collections and laboratory experiments.

I am indebted for the selfless support, encouragements, love, affection and immense patience imparted by my parents. I owe much to them for providing me the comfortable environment and tolerating the swing in my temperament during the entire period of the work and for taking care of my son. I owe special thanks to my dear son Sanskar, sister Namita and brother Samarjeet for their constant love and support.

I finally express my gratitude to God for all his blessing, without which I could never, accomplished what I wanted.