Acknowledgements

This thesis is the result of a ceaseless hard work, where-by I have been accompanied, supported and encouraged by many people. Now, I have the opportunity to express my gratitude for all of them.

First and foremost, I am highly indebted to the folk medicine practitioners, jaundice patients and concerning informers who were closely associated with me during the field study of my research work.

It is my opportunity to pronounce my deepest sense of gratitude to my illustrious guide Dr. D. C. Deka, Professor and Head, Department of Chemistry, Gauhati University, Guwahati, for his exemplary guidance. I owe him lots of regards and would be remembered life-long.

My hearty thanks to Dr. P. J. Das, Dr. A. K. Mishra, Dr. B. C. Goswami, former Heads, Department of Chemistry, Gauhati University, Guwahati, and other faculty members of the department for their constant encouragement, cooperation and suggestions which made my path more easier.

I am highly indebted to the Governing Body, B. P. Chaliha College, Nagarbera, Kamrup, Assam, for their kind permission to carry out my research work. I am also thankful to all teaching and non-teaching members of my college, especially to Dr. P. K. Bhattacharya, Principal (Retired) of B. P. Chaliha College, Nagarbera for their kind support to my research work.

I wish to acknowledge and express my thanks to the authority and scientific staffs of Sophisticated Analytical Instrumentation Facility (SAIF), CDRI, Lucknow (India) and Sophisticated Analytical Instrumentation Facility (SAIF), NEHU, Shillong (India) for their helps to carried out the spectral analysis part of my research work.

I would like to be grateful to University Grants Commission for awarding me a Teacher Fellowship under Faculty Improvement Scheme of UGC, without which it would not have been possible for me to complete the research work. In this regard my sincere thanks are due to Mr. S. S. Roy, Deputy Secretary, UGC (NERO), Guwahati.
I am thankful to my fellow research scholars of the department, especially - Moumita, Pankaj (Sr), Sukanya, Pankaj (Jr), Kajal, Sanjoy, Tiluttama, Swarnali, Priyanka, Pranita, Nitumani, Monmi, Anju, Munmun, Arun and Prof. Neog for their sincere help and cooperation during my research work.

I sincerely believe that once own house is the best place of inspiration, motivation to understand or to take in hand any endeavour and my house is also not an exception to it. I would rather have shared this moment of happiness with my parents (however, my father had breathed his last recently, 19/04/2011), other family members, well-wishers and relatives especially to my elder brother Prof. P. Chakravarty and brother in law Er. H. Goswami.

I have to acknowledge my deepest love and gratitude to my wife Mrs. Geeta Devi Chakravarty, my son Cadet Mimangsha Dorson and my lovely daughter Upasona for their sacrifice, forbearance and persuasions which helped me to complete my research work.

Finally, I would like to extend my hearty thanks to one and all who directly or indirectly rendered their service and support in completing my Ph. D. research work.

Place: Guwahati
Date: 22/10/2011

(Dhiresh Chakravarty)
Associate Professor
Department of Chemistry
B.P.Chaliha College, Nagarbera,
Kamrup, Assam (India)
Pin.781127