ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It is beyond words to express my deep sense of gratitude to my supervisor, Dr. D.S. Dalal, Dept. of English, M.D. University, Rohtak, who with his profound erudition and keen insight steered the course of my thought and imparted benign guidance and invaluable advice. With his sharp critical faculty, keen observation and characteristic patience, he helped me developing the knack of handling the issue involved in my present study. His encouraging letters when I was away from Rohtak and his affectionate hospitality during the sessions of untiring discussions are no less than a debt which I cannot afford to pay back. Due to the non-availability of critical books, I often felt greatly handicapped, but Dr. Dalal very generously allowed me a free access to his personal library. Also I am deeply grateful to him for his casting a watchful eye over the draft by virtue of which I have saved a variety of ill-courses.

I am also thankful to Dr. Prafulla C. Kar, Prof. of English, M.S. University, Baroda and Mr. A.S. Mahajan, Dept. of English, G.M.N. College, Ambala Cantt for their timely help and suggestions. I must thank my friends Mr. Varghese John, Dept. of English, U.C. College, Alwaye, Kerala and Mrs. P. Sreelekshmi, Research Scholar at American Studies Research Center, Hyderabad for providing me the relevant matter.

But 'thanks' appears too little a word for the constant inspiration and encouragement given to me by my parents, especially my mother, Sheel Jain who was all the time curious to see the work completed at the earliest. As for making possible the writing of this thesis and giving it the final form, the entire credit goes to my husband, Neeraj Jain, who has always sacrificed his comforts and interests for ensuring me the long hours of concentration at the writing desk.

My grateful acknowledgements are also due to the librarian and staff of American Studies Research Center, Hyderabad, American Studies Center, New Delhi, M.D.University, Rohtak and G.M.N.College, Ambala Cantt for providing me the numerous books and journals.

I wish, also, to thank Mr. Rajneesh and Mr. Davinder who typed this thesis, so expertly and expeditiously.
