Prime Minister’s Rozgar Yojana (PMRY) was launched throughout the country on 2nd of October 1993 in urban areas. During the year 1994-95 it was extended to rural areas. This Scheme was started with the primary objective of focussing attention on the educated unemployed youth of the society, especially, from socially and economically backward communities to start self-employment ventures. The present study is an attempt to evaluate the PMRY scheme as is being implemented in the District of Rohtak.

I express my deep sense of gratitude to my supervisor Professor D. C. Vashisth, Head of the Department of Economics, M. D. University, Rohtak, whose intellectual inspiration and unique co-operation helped me to complete the present work. The thesis would not have been completed without his guidance and encouragement.

I am highly grateful to Professor S. B. Dahiya for his invaluable guidance and encouragement to complete this work. I am indebted to Dr. Suprabha Dahiya for her continuing help during my studies. My thanks are due to Dr. Anita Dagar, Dr. Kavita Chakarvarty and Dr. I. S. Hooda, who helped me in several ways all throughout the study.
I owe special thanks to the Department of Economics, M. D. University, Rohtak, for kindly pursuing the first draft of my thesis and giving me the benefit of advice liberally. I am also thankful to the General Manager of District Industries Centre, Rohtak; Bank Managers and PMRY beneficiaries for their cooperation in this study.

I would like to express my gratitude to my husband, Mr. Naresh Mann, without whose valuable comments on the topic, constant support, encouragement and patience, this study could not have been completed. I am also thankful to my 'Dever', Mukesh, for his cooperation in my study. I wish to place on record my thankful appreciations for the co-operation extended to me by my daughter, Mansi, and son, Honey for cheerfully suffering my involvement in this work. I am also thankful to my mother, Smt. Savitri Dabas and mother-in-law, Smt. Ompati for their moral support in my research work. In the last, I thank Mr. Virender Gulia and Mr. Sanjeev for their co-operation in typesetting.
