ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am indeed very grateful to my supervisor, Dr. (Mrs.) Neelima Dahiya, whose profound scholarship and incisive comments helped me develop and shape this study in its present form. Her keen interest in my work developed in me a sense of confidence, and it was to her that I always looked for guidance. Mrs. Dahiya's demanding and exacting standards included in me the spirit of hard work and self discipline as a researcher.

I am grateful to Dr. Suraj Bhan, Professor, Kurukshetra University, Kurukshetra, whose devotion to the study of history and archaeology has been a source of great inspiration for me. My special thanks are also due to Dr. Satpal Singh Dahiya, in whose intellectual company I used to have very long sessions of useful discussions.

I shall be failing in my duty if I do not acknowledge my gratitude to Dr. Amar Singh, who has always been a source of encouragement and motivation for me. I am also thankful to the teachers of the Deptt. of History, M.D.University, Rohtak, for their valuable suggestions at the various stages of the development of this study.

Most deserving of my thanks are, of course, my parents, who have always stood by me at every stage of my academic career. The soothing and strengthening nature of support which I received from my wife, Mrs. Shashi Kala Nandal, deserves a special mention.

I must express my thanks to the library staff of M.D.U. Rohtak, K.U.K, Archaeology Survey of India, New Delhi, Archaeology and Museum, Haryana, Chandigarh for providing me the books and other relevant material which I needed to complete my present work.

Last but not the least, I am thankful to Computer Concepts for the pains they took in word-processing this thesis with great care and efficiency.
