Acknowledgments

The writing of the thesis has been one of the most significant academic challenges. This dissertation would not have been possible without the guidance and the help of several individuals who in one or another way have contributed and extended their valuable help in the preparation and completion of this study. It is to them that I owe my deepest gratitude.

At the very onset, I am humbly indebted to my supervisor Prof. A. S. Shahi, Department of Mechanical Engineering, Sant Longowal Institute of Engineering and Technology (S.L.I.E.T.), Longowal, Sangrur, Punjab, India for their invariable guidance and supervision. They interleave in me the sense of responsibility, sincerity & talent to work and have been instrumental shaping in many ways my professional and social life. He inspired me to work with strong determination and dedication under adverse situations. I have been blessed by his kind support, valuable inputs and suggestions when I needed the most.

I owe my profound gratitude and indebtedness to Dr. Kulwant Singh, Head of Mechanical Engineering Department, Departmental Research Committee (DRC) members and Research Progress Committee (RPC) members for their valuable suggestions made during course of this research work. I am also highly grateful to Prof. V. K. Jain, Director, S.L.I.E.T., Longowal, for providing the opportunity to carry out the thesis work.

I also thankfully acknowledge the reviewers as well as the subject editors related to my research publications for their constructive comments that have helped in adding more value to this work.

The infrastructural support provided by the Welding Metallurgy Laboratory, Advance Welding Laboratory, Centre for Innovation Laboratory and Workshop of S.L.I.E.T., Longowal is gratefully acknowledged.

I am thankful to all the faculty of the department for their cooperation during my research work because without their constant support it would have been impossible to complete the thesis in the present form. I would also like to thank the non-teaching staff of the department especially, Mr. Ajay Gupta, Mr. Kulvinder Singh, Mr. Madan Mohan, Mr. R. S. Ram and Mr. Mica, for helping me in the research work. I also wish to express my sincere thanks to my colleagues especially, Dr. Jagmeet Sekhon, Mr. Varun Sharma, Mr. Manoj Kumar, Mr. Amrit Singh, Mr. Ranjit Singh, Dr. Gurmeet Singh Cheema, Dr. Vijay Kumar, Dr. Veerpal Singh, Dr. Aamir Husain Dar and all my friends who supported me and provided much needed assistance and encouragement during my research work.

My words leave no bound to express my gratitude towards my parents. My father, Sh. Uma Dutt Bamola, in the first place, is a person who put the establishment of my knowledge character, showing me the joy of intellectual pursuit ever since I was a child. My Mother, Smt. Prem Lata Bamola, is the one who sincerely raised me with her caring and gentle love, and my all family members for their love and support. Whatever, I am today is because of priceless good fortune of my wife, Smt. Pooja Bamola and my son Praagy Bamola. Their love is surely a debt, which could never be paid. Their blessings and love are the source of my spirit every moment.

I am most grateful to the Ministry of Human Resource & Development (MHRD), New Delhi for rendering the financial help (Institute Fellowship) during my Ph.D. research work.

Thanks are also due to all those who could not be acknowledged here but helped me directly or indirectly in my research endeavor.

I would also like to thank the “Almighty” who showed me the path of knowledge and wisdom and helped in accomplishing this work without losing the focus from the goal.

Finally, I wish to be pardoned for any omissions made by me all through this knowledge gaining period of research.
