ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

In the completion of this work, the support, guidance, encouragement and assistance of several persons and institutions have been invaluable. In this regard my first appreciation and acknowledgement goes to my supervisor, Dr. C. J. Nirmal, Professor and Head, Department of History, Madras Christian College whose countless hours of assistance made completion of the manuscript possible. He reviewed, commented and provided numerous helpful suggestions.

I am grateful for the support of the Indian Council of Historical Research, New Delhi for granting Fellowship to carry out this study.

I appreciate Vidwan P. Subbiah of Madras for his sincere effort of going through the entire manuscript and for providing some relevant comments. I thank Professor C. S. Krishna who has remained a constant source of strength and Professor Venkataramani of Madras Christian College, for corrections in the text.

The Nehru Memorial Museum and Library, Sapru House Library, Jawaharlal Nehru University Library, Chennai Public Library, Maraimalai Adigal Library, Theosophical Society Library, Periyar Rationalist Library, and Research Centre, Madras University Library and the authorities of the Tamil Nadu Archives have all helped to support my research effort which I gratefully acknowledge.
I am thankful to Mr. M. Balaji an undergraduate student, Department of Economics, Madras Christian College, for his help and co-operation in the preparation of this typescript.

In particular to Mr. K. Jayaram for his neat and correct typing of the thesis, I remain indebted.

Finally, I wish to thank my wife Mrs. Indira and family for patiently enduring the long hours and pressures that accompany such an effort and for her specific encouragement and understanding.
