This doctoral thesis would not have been possible without the guidance and the help of several individuals who in one way or another contributed and extended their valuable assistance in the preparation and completion of this study. Without their continuous support and inspiration my endeavour would not have come to fruition. I thank Almighty for blessing me with strong will power, patience and confidence, which helped me in completing this.

With great sense of indebtedness I pay my heartfelt regards and gratitude to my supervisor, Dr. J. K. Saxena, Chief Scientist and Head, Division of Biochemistry, Central Drug Research Institute, Lucknow, for accepting me as a PhD student and giving me an opportunity to join his esteemed group. I feel immensely difficult to put into words my gratefulness to him for his kind helps particularly when I required them most. Without his kind co-operation and active participation it would have been impossible for me to get through this work. His excellent guidance, critical suggestions, scientific discussions and constant encouragement especially in the low phase helped me a lot to complete my work. His dedication to the work and untiring effort has deep impression in my heart. I will be lifelong grateful for his scientific, spiritual and moral contribution in my life.

I owe my sincere thanks to Dr. T. K. Chakrobarty, Director, Central Drug Research Institute, for providing me all the laboratory and institutional facilities. I sincerely thank Council of Scientific and Industrial Research, India, for providing me Junior and Senior Research Fellowships.
