Acknowledgement

This research work titled, ‘Impact of Consumer Behaviour on Buying Decisions of Children’ is dedicated to my father, late Shri Anant Govind Sawaikar, who had immense faith in my capabilities. It was his dream to see me complete my doctorate, and I am trying my best to live up to his expectations. He has supported me in all my endeavours, trusted me when I took all important decisions of my life and felt pride in all my achievements. His appreciation for me has always motivated me to give my best. I miss you so much baba, especially on this occasion, when it is the most important moment of my life.

These two and a half years have been very eventful on all fronts. I lost my father-in-law, late Shri Vishwasrao Jiwaji Kulkarni to an accident, 3 months after I lost my father. These two gentle souls have been a guiding force and have encouraged me to give my best shot, at times, when I nearly gave up. My father-in-law, a wonderful human being constantly supported and encouraged me, in all my endeavours. He appreciated my efforts and constantly motivated me to excel. These two gentlemen were my backbone and I really felt lost after losing them one after another.

In the course of the thesis, several outstanding individuals were integrally involved and made substantial contributions from time to time. On the onset, I would like to acknowledge and thank Dr. G. Y. Shitole, Reader, PG Department of Commerce, for his invaluable guidance, developmental inputs and occasional coercion in completing the work on time and constant motivation to excel. I am grateful to sir for suggesting continuous improvements through extensive review process.
I express heartfelt gratitude to Dr. Ram Sable and Dr. Sanjay Kaptan, for being resourceful and constantly motivating me to do quality work.

I would fail in my duty if I do not thank Dr. J.C. Sharma, who gave great amount of feedback and had stimulating discussions which has added value to my research work. Dr. Sharma has also helped in analysing the data through the SPSS package.

After losing my father and father-in-law it was only my husband’s encouragement and my son’s eagerness to see me get a doctorate that egged me on to continue my endeavour. My sincere thanks to my husband, Mr. Prasad V. Kulkarni, for his constant support and encouragement, without which, completing my PhD would have been a distant dream. He calmed me down when I was hyper, soothed me when I feeling low and guided me when I faltered. I would also like to appreciate his efforts in helping me format the entire thesis, and having patience in my limited technological know-how. Full credit would also go to my son, Master Yash P. Kulkarni, all of 10 years, who has shown tremendous maturity and has been taking up a lot of responsibilities so that his mother could concentrate on her thesis.

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my elder sister, Ms. Dhanashree Arjunwadkar, for being there for me, when I needed her the most. Her immense faith in me kept me going. Big thanks are due for my brother, Mr. Sarvottam Sawaikar and my sister-in-law Ms. Saru Sawaikar, for being a quite pillar of strength, for calling me up from time to time and motivating me to complete my work on time. A special mention to my mother, Ms. Leela A. Sawaikar who kept me grounded and adjusted to all my whims and fancies during my research work. I would like to take this opportunity to thank her who along with my father believed in giving good education and secure upbringing and constantly stressed on overall personality development, which has helped me a lot to go the extra mile in my personal as well as professional life. I take this opportunity to thank Milind Arjunwadkar for standing by me through thick and thin like an elder brother.

Sincere thanks to my mother-in-law, Mrs. Vidya Kulkarni for supporting me constantly in all my endeavours, adjusting to my work schedules and enquiring about the work progress regularly. I would also like to thank my brother-in-law Mr. Hemant Kulkarni, my sister-in-law, Ms. Manjusha Kulkarni for constantly encouraging me. A special mention to Neha, Rucha, Namita and Mandar for constantly egging me to complete the work on time. I would like to extend a thank you to my nephew, Kedar Kulkarni, who in spite of his own submissions and busy schedule, made it a point to come and help me with the flow-charts and other diagrams in the thesis. I would like to sincerely thank my sister-in-law’s Sharmila Vahini, Dhanashree Vahini, Aparna Vahini and Minoo for encouraging me and boosting my morale from time to time. I thank all my brother-in-law’s for being extremely supportive. Thanks are due to Uma Tai, Radhatai, Meenatai and Manutai for their encouraging words and blind faith in my work. The entire Kulkarni family has stood by me and have always enriched my life in more ways than one. I will always cherish these relationships all my life.

I cannot forget the love and affection bestowed on me by Late Shubhada Kaku, who had great faith in my abilities and would have been happy to see me complete my thesis today.

I would fail in my duty if I don’t thank Dr. Kalyani Venkateswaran, Dean of Commerce Faculty, for constantly stressing on importance of quality so much so that it made me cautious right from the very beginning. Her timely inputs and intellectual discussions have added value to my research work. I would also like to thank my friends, Dr. Kaveri, Archana, Madhavi, Usha and Radhika for bearing with me for these two and a half years. Thanks for giving a patient ear to my loud thinking and valuable inputs from time to time at various stages of my thesis.
I also owe my gratitude to my son’s friends mothers, who took upon themselves to buy all the project related material from time to time for my son, along with their own child. A special mention to Mrs. Leena Pandit, for volunteering to pick up or drop, or buy assignment material for my son. I cannot forget the contributions made by Ms. Vinaya Malwankar, Ms. Bindu Nayak and Ms. Vinaya Vaishampayan, through their intellectual and creative inputs from time to time. They have offered me their shoulders to cry on, when I would be frustrated and bogged down by work on professional as well as personal front.

I have been extremely fortunate to have a sister-in-law like Ms. Savitri Kulkarni, whom my father-in-law called my Godmother. Rightly so, since she has been my friend, philosopher and guide. She has been of immense help and a person I could count upon in my hour of crisis. She has helped me get the books on time and given a lot of important suggestions which has contributed positively to my thesis. Thanks are also due to Namrata Kulkarni for being my punching bag and a sounding board and adding new dimensions to the research work.

I am indebted to Ms. Aswini Prabhu, librarian and the entire staff of Smt. MMP Shah Women’s College of Arts and Commerce Library and to Mrs. Vidya Subramanyam, librarian of Dr. BMN College of Home Science library, for extending co-operation and granting permission to use the library and borrow the books as per my convenience. I am grateful to both the librarians for going out of their way and issuing me the books in spite of the inconvenience caused to them.

I would like to appreciate the help extended by Ms. Kanchan Dutta and Ms. Deepali Moghe, concerning any problem related to the thesis at any point of the day. They have been kind enough to pick up my phone even during odd hours and help solve any problems pertaining to the thesis. Big thanks to Bageshree for peping me up and being there for me during the entire research period.
Last but not the least, a big thanks to Satish Kulkarni of Parkar Arts for helping me format and print the thesis. His enthusiasm is definitely infectious and that helps solve problems instantly. A special thanks to Pradnya Mahmunkar and Shital Pawar for constantly helping in their own small ways. I will always remember and cherish these gestures which have also helped me complete my work on time.

Grace of God, blessings from elders, guidance from my guide, support of family and friends and wishes of all my students has truly helped me complete my research work. I wish to acknowledge all these people who have touched my life in small ways and big. I will cherish all the moments of pride, accomplishment, despair and happiness which I experienced during the research work.
