

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First of all, I would like to express my deep gratitude to my research supervisors, Prof. R.K.Mittal and Prof. Sushil, for their constant encouragement and guidance. They have supported my interest in strategy, flexibility and enterprise performance management and remained a motivational force at every stage of my research work. Their guidance was truly inspiring not only to this thesis but also to my professional career.

Prof. Sushil has been a positive force during research challenges. I have found him to be very positive, sincere, dedicated, and enthusiastic. Prof. Mittal has always been humble, humane and encouraging me to write papers for conferences, seminars and journals, a very important aspect of research work.

I am extremely thankful to Prof. (Dr.) Anu Singh Lather, the Dean and Dr. Udita Taneja, Research Coordinator at University School of Management Studies, Guru Gobind Singh Indraprastha University, for immense support during Ph.D. progress reviews. I gratefully acknowledge the valuable inputs provided by Prof. Neena Sinha and other faculty members of G.G.S.I.P. University, and Prof. Abid Haleem, Jamia Millia Islamia University, Delhi during my research work.

I am particularly indebted to Director (HR), ONGC for allowing me to undertake the research work. I also thank seniors and colleagues from ONGC, Oil India Ltd., and other upstream oil companies, for helping me to carry out survey for my research. My thanks also go to Mr. Mohammad Arif of NEP University, Delhi for his support in analyzing data with SPSS ver.12 software and providing quick understanding of data analysis.

I most humbly thank Almighty Allah, who provided me health, wisdom, resources and opportunities to carry out the research work successfully. I will be failing in my duty if I do not mention names of my father Mr. Nazeer Ahmad Khan, retired lecturer of chemistry and my mother Ms. Maimuna Khatoon for providing continuous encouragement. My wife and children have provided continuous support and love, without which it would have not been possible to complete my work.

The research work and dissertation is dedicated to the most important in my life, Almighty Allah, my teachers, my parents, family, and humanity.
