The author takes the opportunity to express his deep sense of gratitude to his respected supervisors, Dr. Nageshwar Prasad, Professor (Retired), Post Graduate Department of Geography, the University of Burdwan (West Bengal) and Dr. Giyasuddin Siddiqui, Professor of Geography, Post Graduate Department of Geography, the University of Burdwan (West Bengal). Their valuable guidance, continuous encouragement and sincere help have always been a great source of inspiration to him. They have always rendered his help at every step of his work. Their flawless attitude and valuable advices have made this thesis attain perfection. He will remain ever grateful to them.

The author also likes to express his thanks and gratitude to all the faculty members of the Department for their valuable suggestions from time to time, particularly for their constructive criticism and showing interest with regard to the present work and thought provoking enquiry during pre-Ph.D. Seminar. The members of the Office, Technical Laboratory and Seminar Library also deserve thanks for their cooperation. His sincere thanks are also due to the research scholars and students of the department for their help and suggestions.

In a personal manner, he would like to place on record his grateful thanks to Mr. G. M. Midhya, the Principal, Dr. Gour Mohan Roy College, Monteswar, Burdwan and his colleagues and students of his institution for their constant academic exchange of valuable geographic ideas.

He likes to extend his thanks to all the organisations from which data and relevant maps have been collected viz., Bureau of Applied Economics and Statistics, Kolkata, National Bureau of Soil Survey and Land Use Planning, Kolkata, Geological Survey of India, Kolkata, and Survey of India, Kolkata.

He is immensely grateful to Dr. Abarna Mukhopadhyay, Associate Professor of Geography, Ranaghat College and Shri Kirtimay Mukhopadhyay, retired Scientific Officer, NATMO who helped him a lot during his field trips.

The residents of several villages under his study area have very humbly and sincerely helped him in solving various problems. Through hours of discussions with those villagers, many significant aspects of the area have become clear to him. He likes to extend his special thanks to them.

He expresses his sincere thanks to Shri Snehasis Koley for his valuable guidance regarding the use of software during map-making.

He expresses his deep gratitude to his parents, Sri Manik Chatterjee and Smt. Manju Chatterjee who have helped and encouraged him continuously in completing this work. Without their active help and co-operation, this work could not be completed.

He is also grateful to Mrs. Indrani Mukherjee, Assistant Professor of Geography, Chandrapur College, Burdwan for her suggestions and help from time to time.

Lastly, the author expresses his sincerest thanks to all these persons and the institutions for their sincere help and my respected supervisors for their valuable guidance and suggestions in his research work.
