Acknowledgements

I thank Almighty for giving me the wisdom and power to follow my dreams, for all the love he bestowed upon me throughout my life and providing me with health, commitment and patience for completing my study.

The Guru is the means of realization. "There is no knowledge without a teacher."
– Swami Vivekananda

First and foremost, I would like to express my sincerest gratitude to my PhD Supervisor, Dr. Chakrapani M, Associate Dean and Professor, Department of Internal Medicine, Kasturba Medical College, Manipal University, Mangalore. I feel immensely lucky to be under the orbit of Dr. Chakrapani M. To me, this voyage has been a constant learning process which shaped me into a better self both at personal and professional levels. I thank for introducing me to the field of Diabetes research. None of this would have been possible without your vision, support and encouragement. I thank for helping me to find a clarity when things did not make sense and for helping me “connect the dots”. I could not have asked for a better mentor, colleague and friend. An average teacher tells. The good teacher explains. The superior teacher demonstrates. The great teacher inspires. I thank for being an inspiration to me. I shall always be indebted for his genuine affection, precise guidance and authoritative leadership throughout my study. You have made an invaluable contribution to my PhD journey.

My heartfelt appreciation goes to the Department of Cardiology, Kasturba Medical College, Mangalore, for their excellent contributions in making the study successful and for welcoming me to the team, providing the space and allowing me to work without any boundaries. I am extremely grateful to entire team of cardiologists consisting of Dr. R. L. Kamath, Professor and Head, Dr. Padmanabh Kamath, Additional Professor, Dr. Narayan M Bhat, Associate Professor, Dr. Narasimha Pai, Associate Professor, Dr. Rajesh Bhat, Assistant Professor and Dr. Maneesh Rai, Assistant Professor Department of Cardiology, Kasturba Medical College, Mangalore for their support and guidance not only in the topic but also in the department. Their insightful comments and suggestions over the years have been truly appreciated. The work would have not been possible without their support and encouragement.
I feel highly privileged to express my gratitude to Dr. Poornima Manjrekar, Professor and Head, Department of Biochemistry, Kasturba Medical College, Mangalore, for providing me the space to carry out my research work in the department. I thank her for an invaluable support, encouragement and timely help received during the entire study period.

I thank sincerely Dr. Sydney D’Souza, Prof. Medicine, Kasturba Medical College, Mangalore, for his valuable guidance.

I would also like to specially thank, Dr. Tejas Shah, Senior Resident, Department of Cardiology, Kasturba Medical College, Mangalore, in particular for his wonderful brotherly support during the study period.

I am thankful to Dr. Shiji, Dr. Ritesh, Dr. Yogesh and Dr. Vidur Senior Residents, Department of Cardiology, Kasturba Medical College, Mangalore for their support and encouragement.

I would like to extend my thanks to Mr. Ganesh P and Mr. Mohammed Ameen, Cath lab technologist, Department of Cardiology, Kasturba Medical College, Mangalore, who helped me a lot during the study.

I also thank hospital nurses, biochemistry clinical lab unit for their assistance in the blood sample collection and separation.

I would also like to thank to Dr. Raghavendra Bhat, former Professor and Head, Department of Medicine, Kasturba Medical College, Mangalore for his supervision and support in the department.

I would like to express my sincere gratitude Dr. Damodara Shenoy, Professor and Head, Department of Medicine, Kasturba Medical College, Mangalore for his constant inspiration, academic drive and untiring goodwill.

I thank Dr. M. Venkatraya Prabhu, Dean, Kasturba Medical College, Mangalore for his supervision and support.

I acknowledge the encouragement and support given by Dr. Gopalakrishna Bhat, Additional Professor, Department of Microbiology, Kasturba Medical College, Mangalore.
I would like to sincerely express my deep gratitude to all those kind people who came forward to donate their valuable blood samples without which this work would have been impossible.

It was a pleasure to share doctoral studies and life with wonderful fellow researchers in the department. I appreciate their valuable help at all times during my study. To all my dear friends near and far, thank you for your persistent encouragement and for being there every time when I needed a break.

Last but not the least, I wish to thank my parents, for their unconditional love and support. You have imbibed in me the value of commitment and hard work which has carried me through this PhD candidature.