List of Figures

1.1 The chapter scheme ...................................................... 15

2.1 The gender construct .................................................. 22
2.2 Scoping studies .......................................................... 23
2.3 Studies in work life balance .......................................... 32
2.4 Studies in gender bias .................................................. 38

3.1 The research paradigm .................................................. 52
3.2 The justification for the ontological premise of this study .... 56
3.3 The epistemological premise of this study ......................... 61
3.4 The methodological premises of this study ......................... 66
3.5 The ways of mixing methods .......................................... 68
3.6 The adaptation of Roy Bhaskar’s ontology to the present study 69
3.7 The adaptation of Layder’s model to the present study ........... 70
3.8 The research design ..................................................... 74
3.9 The detailed gender construct ........................................ 77
3.10 The industrywise distribution of the survey sample .......... 81
3.11 The industrywise distribution of the interview sample ....... 82
3.12 The positionwise distribution of the interview and survey sample 83
3.13 The citywise distribution of the interview sample .......... 83

4.1 The analysis of work life balance in terms of Layder’s model 97
4.2 The educational qualifications of women executives ............ 111
4.3 The marital status of women executives ........................... 111
4.4 The mean value of scores of socio-cultural beliefs ............... 113
4.5 Gender bias in terms of ‘Respect given’ and ‘Role definition’ of women executives .............................................. 115
4.6 Descriptive statistics of stated beliefs .............................. 117
4.7 The derived beliefs ...................................................... 118
4.8 The Kano diagram for the derived and stated values of ‘Role’ 120
4.9 The Kano diagram for the derived and stated values of ‘Respect’ 122
4.10 The social factors that support work life balance ............... 124
4.11 The organizational factors that support work life balance .... 130
4.12 The average perception of the sources of support for work life balance ......................................................... 141
4.13 The average usage of organizational facilities .................... 141
LIST OF FIGURES

4.14 The weighted mean scores of organizational facilities ........ 142
4.15 The usage of flexible work pattern .......................... 143
4.16 The activities that promote work life balance .................. 144
4.17 The time spent at work and willingness to relocate ............ 144
4.18 The beliefs about work life balance ........................... 154
4.19 The coping strategies used by women executives to handle work life conflict ............................................. 165
4.20 The average of the responses on self image given by women executives ......................................................... 176

5.1 Gender bias layered in Layder's model .......................... 193
5.2 The concept map showing the responses of executive women to gender bias - Heroic masculinity ....................... 201
5.3 The opinion of women executives regarding the presence of Heroic masculinity in Indian organizations .................. 214
5.4 The industrywise response to the existence of Heroic masculinity as a bias ...................................................... 215
5.5 The perceived bias of Heroic masculinity in foreign and local firms 215
5.6 Heroic masculinity at different organizational levels .......... 216
5.7 The perception of gender bias of Heroic masculinity classified by place of work ................................................. 217
5.8 The reasons for Heroic masculinity according to women executives ................................................................. 217
5.9 The conceptual map of the opinions of women executives regarding Networking skills ................................. 219
5.10 A MindMap of interviewee responses to Think manager: Think male and Tokenism bias ........................................ 232
5.11 The perception of bias (Hm, Tmtm, Tk) as expressed by women executives ......................................................... 240
5.12 The responses and reasons for the prevalence of Homophilly .... 242
5.13 The responses regarding the prevalence of Double bind ......... 249
5.14 The MindMap showing the different opinions given by women executives regarding Double bind as a bias ......... 250
5.15 The responses of women executives regarding Devaluation .... 263
5.16 The responses and reasons given by women executives about Cinderella complex ................................................. 276
5.17 Comparative chart of the prevalence of different gender biases . 301

6.1 The process of social production ................................. 305
6.2 The MindMap of field and doxa .................................. 322
6.3 The MindMap of habitus ........................................... 329
6.4 The MindMap of reflexivity ....................................... 332

7.1 The summary of findings in the area of work life balance ....... 376
7.2 The summary of findings in the area of gender bias ............. 377