ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I owe a large debt of thanks to my research supervisor, Dr G. Dominic Savio for his unstinting intellectual generosity, gracious guidance and insightful comments throughout my period of research.

I am deeply indebted to our former Principal, Dr Nirmala Jeyaraj for the research impetus she initiated in me and for her invaluable encouragement and motivation. My deepest gratitude are due to Dr Mercy Pushpalatha, Principal, Lady Doak College for her unflagging support and counsel.

My sincere gratitude to Dr D. Parameswari, Professor and Head, Department of English and Comparative Studies, Madurai Kamaraj University, Madurai, my model of scholarship, for the occasional enlightening conversations with her that I enjoyed and benefited from.

My sincere gratitude to Dr Paul Love and the SCILET for the resources of knowledge I enjoyed at the center

My heartfelt thanks are due to Dr Rachel Barnabas, Head of the English Department, Lady Doak College, and my colleagues for their continued cooperation.
I am especially grateful to Dr Mary Kirtz at Oberlin College USA, whose erudition and encouragement immeasurably improved my work. A special word of thanks to Dr Jim and Anne Helm for introducing me to Dr Mary Kirtz.

My deepest appreciation and gratitude Dr Carl Jacobson and Ms. Debo Cocco Directors, Oberlin Shansi Exchange Program USA, and the Shastri Indo Canadian Institute for their funding support that enabled rich experiences of study abroad.

I gratefully acknowledge my friend Dr Geetha Kanagaraj for her stimulus and support over the years.

My sincere thanks to Dr Rosary Royar for her skilled editing and sound judgment.

I thank Mr T. Ganesh Babu for his expert assistance in formatting the thesis.

My honour to my mother who influenced my life and instilled pride and confidence in me. Very special thanks to my husband and sons for their warm support and patience at every stage of my work.

I thank and praise God whose grace sustained me in my intellectual endeavour.
