It gives me great pleasure to acknowledge the help and advice received during my tenure as a research fellow at National Institute of Oceanography (NIO), Goa. Many people in their very special way contributed to the successful completion of this Ph.D. thesis. They all deserve a special mention. I am sure I may forget many, simply because it is human nature and most importantly absent-mindedness is a quality of the brain and not the heart. It is a pleasure to convey my gratitude and love to one and all in my humble acknowledgement.

I am especially indebted to my research guide, Dr. Rajiv Nigam, Scientist 'G', NIO for permitting and providing me an opportunity to work under his supervision and guidance. His patience, fruitful discussion, helpful criticism, immensely helped me to complete this thesis. His true scientific instinct as a constant oasis of ideas, innovations and passion in science, inspired and developed my growth as a student and later as a researcher. I am indebted to him to the extent that cannot be expressed in words.

I am grateful to Dr. S. R. Shetye, Director, NIO, for permitting me to be a part of this esteemed institute and use the facilities available in the Micropaleontology Laboratory.

I express my sincere thanks to my co-guide Prof. G.N. Nayak, Department of Marine Sciences, Goa University for his support, encouragement and timely help during various stages of my research work.

I am obliged to Faculty Research Committee members- Dr. Anil Paropkari, Vice Chancellor’s nominee and Dr. P.V. Desai, the Dean of the Faculty of Life & Environment Sciences, for their co-operation and assistance. I express my sincere thanks to Prof. H. B. Menon, Head, Department of Marine Sciences for help and cooperation on various occasions.

I take this opportunity to thank Dr. Rajeev Saraswat, Scientist, NIO, for his advice, lively discussion, constructive criticism and help during various stages of this work. His inspirations helped me to nourish and promote my intellectual maturity in research which I will benefit from, for a long time to come.

My sincere thanks to Dr. V. K. Banakar, Head, HRD, NIO, Mr. Krishna Kumar and Human Resource Development Group, NIO for making life easier in NIO as a Research Scholar and facilitating the required support wherever and whenever needed.

I am extremely grateful to Dr. M. P. Tapaswi, Documentation Officer, NIO, for his prompt and sincere efforts in procuring any and every piece of literature that I required for my study.

Department of Science and Technology, New Delhi is acknowledged for the financial assistance in the form of Project Assistantship during the initial years of my research. The Council of Scientific and Industrial Research, New Delhi is acknowledged for financial support in the form of Senior Research Fellowship (SRF) without which, I would have not been able to register for Ph.D.

I am thankful to Dr. H. Kitazato for reviewing a few of our manuscripts for publication which are the basis of present work.

The isotope data of cultured specimens was obtained from the analytical laboratory of University of Keil, Germany. In this connection, help and support extended by Prof. Michael Kusera, Dr. Petra Heinz and Dr. Lea Numberaber is highly acknowledged.

I express my sense of gratitude to, Shri. M.C. Pathak, Shri. K.L. Kotnala, Shri. K.H. Vora, Dr. A.R. Gujar, Mr. S.G. Diwan, Dr. A.K. Chaubey, Dr. M.V. Ramana, Dr. V. Ramaswamy, Dr. P.V. Shirodkar, Dr. C. Prakash Babu, Dr. P. D. Naidu, Dr. O.S. Chauhan, who have been very helpful, encouraging and supportive throughout my tenure at NIO.

I also thank alumini of Micropaleontology Lab of NIO- Dr. Neloy Khare, Dr. Pravin Henriques, Dr. Deepak Mayenkar, Dr. Subodh Chaturvedi, Mr. Ranjay Sinha, Dr. Abhijit Mazumder, Dr. Rajani Panchang-Dhumal, Dr. Pawan Govil, Dr. Sanjay Singh
Rana and Mr. Shanmukh D. H, who made my life lively in the lab and also helped me to overcome the smallest and the biggest problems that came in my way.

I offer my special thanks to Mrs. Linshy V.N. for rendering her valuable help and support at various stages of this research work. A special thought for my colleague Mrs. Swati Phadte and M. Phil. student from Delhi University Mr. Dinesh Kumar Naik who have helped me a lot during the final stages of my thesis.

Furthermore, I would like to thank, Mr. Yetin Phadte, Mr. Akshay Parab, Mr. Chandrashekar, Mr. Durvesh Pednekar, Ms. Sonali Haldankar and my senior and junior colleagues from the lab for helping me to collect the samples as well as for taking care of my experiments whenever required. I also thank all the dissertation and summer trainee students who were part of the micropaleontology lab. Thanks to all the other members of micropaleontology lab Ms. Ida, Ms. Sheetal, and Ms. Rubeena for helping me in innumerable ways.

I express my sincere thanks to my friends whose presence is continuously refreshed, supportive and unforgettable. Many thanks go in particular to Dr. Pratima Kesarkar, Dr. Pranab Das, Dr. Sushma Parab, Dr. Witty D’Souza, Dr. P.V. I thank Mr. Areef Sardar for helping me to rectify the problems with the microscope whenever in need. I owe special thanks to Administrative, DTP and Library staff of NIO for their co-operation and help.

I convey special acknowledgement to Mrs. Alka Nigam, Mr. Vishal Nigam, Dr. Divya Saraswat and Mrs. Varsha Govil for their thoughtful support.

My parents deserve special mention for their support and prayers. My father, in the first place is the person who put the fundamentals of learning character in me. My mother is the one who sincerely raised me with her caring and gentle love. Sulekhadi, Jiju, Lekhraj, Sushant, Mahima and Ayushi, are thanked for being supportive and caring.

Words fail to express my appreciation to my beloved husband Mr. Sandeep Raikar whose love and persistent confidence in me was a continuous source of inspiration to continue this work which extended many days till late in the night. I would also thank my mother in law, late father in law and other family members for their impressive support.

Finally, I would like to thank everybody who was associated with the successful realization of this thesis, as well as expressing my apology that, I could not mention each one of them personally.

Last but not the least I attribute the successful completion of this thesis to the almighty God for providing me the strength and energy.
