ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I owe a word of thanks to many people who helped and supported me during my research work. First I thank Almighty God and express deep gratitude for reasons too numerous to mention for giving me the strength to achieve my goal. It is with a sense of deep gratitude that I express my sincere thanks to Prof. P. K. Kalra, Director, Dayalbagh Education Institute, for giving me the permission to undertake this research work.

I owe a debt of gratitude to Prof. Poornima Jain, Head of the Department, Faculty of Social Sciences, D.E.I., took time off her busy schedule for her able guidance and many insightful and constructive observations throughout my study.

I thank my supervisor, Dr. Bandana Gaur, Associate Professor for her support and encouragement. She always and made herself available to discuss ideas and find solution to problems. Without her able support, this work could not have seen the light of day.

It is for me a matter of pride to convey thanks to Prof. L. R. Kulshrestha who is also my local guardian. She has been a tower of strength for me. Without her support this thesis could not have the light of day.
Quite appreciable, a tremendous amount of help has been provided me by Dr. S.H.Jaisi, C.M.O., Etawah, District Statistical officer, District Programme Manager who contributed their time and talent in imparting necessary information, view and insights required to the study. To thank them all, here is a prized occasion for me.

I also have a deep sense of gratitude towards all my respected teachers and staff members of the Dept. of Sociology and Political Science, D.E.I, Agra, for giving me time out of their busy schedule and for showing me the way.

I would like to give special thanks to Dr. Shakeel Ahmad (Depty Secretary of U.G.C.) and Dr. Syed Mehar Taj (Jamia Millia Islamia) for their enormous support not just for this research but also in improving my personality. They have always been for me much more than teacher.

Last, but not least, I thank my family, my parents Mr. Attaur Rehman and Mrs. Najma Begum for giving me life in the first place, and for giving me education, unconditional support and encouragement against all odds to pursue my interest. Without their love, affection and support nothing could have been possible.

I give my sincere thanks to my brother Fajarul Rehman and Asif Iqbal, my bhabhi Heena, my sister Shabnum Naz and Kashish Naz for their affection and blessings, which have always been a source of great support. I am also thankful to my cousin Aman and my niece Zoya, who never fail to cheer me up when the going gets to ugly.

I also wish to give thanks to all those respondents who spared their valuable time and cooperated with us by providing the required information.

I gratefully acknowledge my thanks to the librarians and staff of various Universities and Institutions especially D.E.I., Deemed University, Agra, branch of W.H.O in Etawah for their sincere and prompt help.

I am also heartily grateful to those research scholars, learned writers and critics whose valuable books and research papers helped a lot in the progress of my work.

I am thankful to Sai Computer, New Agra for preparing this computerised script neat and clean.

It is for me indeed a pleasant experience to remember and thank all those who have extended their help, guidance, inspiration and assistance to me to complete this venture successfully.
