Acknowledgment

It is my pleasure and privilege to extend my sincere respect and heartiest thanks to my revered teacher and guide Dr. Anita Sharma for her valuable suggestions, inspiration, motivation, patient guidance and untiring efforts right from the beginning of the research to its finalization. In her I experienced a role combination of profound scientist of human behaviour, sensitive, energetic teacher and considerate individual.

I can never forget to thank Sir Dr. D.K. Malhotra for his invaluable guidance and encouragement during the course of this research. Without his careful guidance, concern, affection and fatherly attitude, successful completion of this study would have been impossible.

I also extend my sincere thanks to all the other respected teacher and staff members of the Department of Psychology for providing me required facilities and help in time.

Sincere thanks are due to Brig. Ashwani Gupta, Commandant, Military Hospital in Jammu, (2008), Col. Vaid, Col. Chauhan and all officers for their cooperation and above all permission in the phase of data collection.

There are no words to express my thanks to all the Jawans who have very patiently and sincerely filled the questionnaire provided to them.

I profusely acknowledge Dr. Bharti Gandhi for her assistance she had obliged me with. And also to Mr. Achhar Singh Parmar (A.I.R.) for the accurate Hindi translation of the ICMR Psychosocial Stress questionnaire and the Adjustment Inventory-Adult Form.

I am also thankful to Mr. Sudhanshu Sood, Dr. Bali, Mr. Puneet Garg and Ms. Ranju for statistical analysis of data, typing, and for giving proper physical shape to this manuscript efficiently and meticulously.

I have no words to describe the emotional support, sacrifice and encouragement of my family members, my parents, my in-laws, my sisters, my brother and all my friends.

Last but not the least, I thank The Almighty for blessing me with His affection, concern, care and support in the form of these persons for their kind contribution in the accomplishment of my research work.